LA FOLLETTE MEN PUTTING IT UP TO THOMAS MORRIS

McGovern's Attitude Confirms Conclusion that a Fight for Governorship Is Inevitable

MORRIS IS NOT A CANDIDATE

Governor Promises to Vote for La Follette for President, but May Bolt to "T. R."

LEADERS HOPE FOR PEACE

Some Still Believe that the Chasm in Wisconsin Republicanism May Be Bridged

(By A. M. Brayton.)

COLISEUM, Chicago, June 20.—La Follette leaders here are putting it up to Tom Morris that he must seek the republican nomination for governor against Francis E. McGovern. They admit having done so, but declare their arguments have been accorded no answer which they are willing to accept. However, they assert that McGovern's attitude today confirms their conclusion that a fight is inevitable.

Asked by a Tribune reporter whether he would accept, Lieutenant Governor Morris replied, "I'm not a candidate." Then he added, "It takes you newspapermen to rig up a sensation."

The situation is serious may be inferred from an interview in the Chicago Journal today in which, replying to a question as to whether he would bolt La Follette and vote for Roosevelt for president, McGovern is quoted as having said: "It is impossible to say what will happen."

The developments today are construed by the peace-loving element of the La Follette camp as an olive branch extended by McGovern, but the militant leaders regard them as constituting an additional slap at the senator. The story is as follows:

Discussing the situation in caucus yesterday McGovern declared that he would continue to vote for La Follette for president as long as the most ardent men on the delegation.

Then the question of how the La Follette delegation should vote on the omnibus motion to seat the seventy contesting Roosevelt delegates came up, and it was suggested that a motion be made by a La Follette delegate to refer the matter to the committee on credentials, in order that each of the separate contests involved might be passed upon on its merits, a thing impossible under the Roosevelt resolution.

McGovern seconds Deenen.

This plan was tentative, and before it could be carried out Governor Deenen introduced a resolution to refer the matter to the credentials committee with a rule that none of the contested Taft delegates be permitted to vote upon any of the contests involving the entire seventy delegates in the aggregate. This was a Roosevelt move, and before the matter came to a vote the La Follette delegates were surprised to see

PERKINS BATTLING FOR T. R.'S CAUSE

George W. Perkins.

George W. Perkins, of New York, is one of the few great captains of finance who favor Theodore Roosevelt's candidacy. A poll recently taken of Wall street shows that a vast majority of the big financiers are for Taft. They have helped him with their money and influence. Perkins, however, has given very liberally of his time and money to the Roosevelt cause, and is now on the scene of battle at Chicago.

CONVENTION MEETS ONLY TO ADJOURN

Four Minutes Is Time the National Body Is in Session This Afternoon

CALLED AGAIN AT FOUR

Report of Credentials Committee on Temporary Roll Is Awaited for Action

CHICAGO, June 20.—While the committee on credentials thrashed out in detail the contested seats which have resulted in the blocking of the wheels of the republican national convention, the convention held a four minute perfunctory session today. The only business transacted was the prayer of the chaplain. Immediately after this was out of the way, a motion for a recess until 4 o'clock this afternoon was carried unanimously.

Must Wait

Until the credentials committee reports the roll of the convention, no business can be transacted. It was generally expected that no session could be held before night at the earliest. Contests before the committee, it was officially announced to Senator Root, temporary chairman, by Chairman Devine of the committee, would likely be confined to the ninth Alabama district, Texas as a whole, Washington, Arizona and the Fourth district of California. In these cases the widest debate was allowed. Other minor contests were to be railroaded as being without merit.

Senator Root came in at 11:45 and held a conference with Murray Crane of Massachusetts on the platform. He then called up Sergeant-at-Arms Stone for a last word regarding the police arrangements. The senator was in excellent fettle and smiled when told that there was a general discussion among certain of the delegates over his qualifications as a compromise presidential candidate.

Lasts Quick

James A. Watson was recognized by the chair and moved a recess until 4 o'clock this afternoon. The motion was carried unanimously with a yell.

The galleries looked on in amazement. They could not understand the suddenness of a move and a number held their seats until told by the police that there would be no

COLONEL RELEASES HIS DELEGATES AND STARTS A NEW POLITICAL ORGANIZATION

HADLEY THORN IN ROOSEVELT'S SIDE

Presidential Bee Is Thought to Have Stung Governor of "Show Me" State

IS WELCOMED BY DELEGATES

Rank and File Look on Him as Ideal Choice for Compromise Candidate

CHICAGO, June 20.—While the politicians on both sides of the republican factional fight worried and fretted today over the outcome of the convention one man was standing pat. He had a man's sized lightning rod pointed to the "blue" and was believed to be hoping the bolt would strike. His attitude was a very penetrating thorn in the Roosevelt flesh.

Hadley Is It

The man was Herbert S. Hadley, governor of Missouri, floor leader of the Roosevelt forces. Hadley has strongly opposed any suggestion of a bolt so long as there was a fighting chance of remaining regular and winning the progressive fight on the floor of the convention. Following the remarkable demonstration of yesterday, when for more than half an hour the representatives of the opposing faction cheered Hadley and resisted the spectacular efforts of the Roosevelt men to turn the demonstration for the "houn" dog state representative into a personal ovation for the Oyster Bay candidate, Hadley stock was enjoying a boom today.

That the Taft men recognize this was shown by many of them suggesting that Hadley was the ideal candidate for the vice-presidency with President Taft. But the rank and file of the delegates, who want victory at the polls next November, were openly talking Hadley as the ideal candidate for head of the ticket.

Solid For Him

Hadley himself declined to discuss his plans. It was said, however, that the entire Missouri delegation, Taft and Roosevelt alike would be a unit for their governor if that should be possible when nominations were called for. And if they are, and Hadley gets the votes of the Taft men who favor a compromise candidate, then the president cannot receive the 540 votes needed to nominate on the initial ballot even though the Roosevelt forces do not participate in the convention Root is presiding over.

On the second ballot Hadley, it was declared, would receive more than half of the New York state votes despite the fact that Barnes had refused up to the present, to consider anyone but President Taft. Gov. Hadley today denied to the United Press that he had been endorsed by the Missouri delegation, or that there was any chance that his name was to be presented to the convention as a compromise candidate.

CONVENTION AT A GLANCE

- Motion by Hadley of Missouri to seat Roosevelt delegates in place of those seated by national committee fails.
- Credentials committee meets and rules against demands of Roosevelt minority.
- Roosevelt men on credentials committee leave in a body.
- Taft majority of committee weakens and grants Roosevelt men a few concessions.
- Roosevelt sends bolters from committee session back.
- Committee seats Taft contestants from Ninth Alabama district and takes up Arizona contest.
- Roosevelt announces repudiation of republican party and his intention to lead new faction into fight.
- Convention meets and adjourns after four minutes until four this afternoon to await report of credentials committee.
- Convention officials, terrified by split engineered by Roosevelt, ask La Follette for terms upon which he will accept nomination.
- The convention reconvened at 4:06 this afternoon and at once adjourned until 11 o'clock tomorrow.

DRAWS FIRST BLOOD AT THE CONVENTION

Patrick Dore.

Patrick Dore, of Oklahoma, enjoys the honor of being the one to draw the first blood at the republican national convention. In the course of a heated controversy he struck Grant Victor, another Oklahoman, in the jaw. The trouble went no further, and no arrests were made.

SAY BREAK WAS INEVITABLE

Even La Follette's Opponents Are Said to Be Afraid to Back McGovern

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 20.—(Special).—Admitting that the break between La Follette and McGovern was inevitable and that the time has come when in their opinion a dash for independence from the leadership of La Follette must be made, there is one fear paramount in the minds of McGovernites here today—the governor isn't "heavy" enough to lead the fight. While they are claiming that La Follette, despite his protestations that the cause is too big for any one man, has set himself up as the original bonafide leader, this claim is counteracted by the La Follette people's assertion that "McGovern" has been the chief cause the governor has promoted ever since his entrance into public life as district attorney of Milwaukee county several years ago.

COUNCIL TO MEET.

A special meeting of the city council has been called for tonight by Mayor John Dengler for the purpose of considering the application for saloon licenses which have been made. The city clerk has thus far received 152 applications. It is probable that all will be referred to the committee on saloon license.

OHIO FOR HADLEY

CHICAGO, June 20.—Ohio's Roosevelt delegates are ready to go over to Governor Hadley. They say they will not follow Colonel Roosevelt into his break with the regular convention unless it seems certain that Taft's convention organization remains unshaken.

ROOSEVELT MEN ARE ABSENT

Many of Colonel's Friends on Committee Are Not Present at the Meeting

CHICAGO, June 20.—In a meeting that was marked from the first with hard fought squabbles, the credentials committee of the national convention this morning seated the two Taft delegates from the Ninth Alabama district by a vote of 34 to 14.

The vote came after two hours' excited debate. Member R. R. McCormick of Illinois, leading the Roosevelt battle, he moved to deny a vote to committeemen from all states whose delegates are contested. Chairman Devine ruled that the motion was out of order. James D. Sloan and J. R. Carter are the Alabama delegates now securely anchored in their seats by the credential committee's ratification of the national committee's decision.

May Pass Arizona

This afternoon the Arizona contest may be passed and the contest of the two delegates from the Fourth California district taken up. The Roosevelt leaders are considering making only four contests—those of Texas and Washington, in addition to Alabama and California.

Chairman Devine eased up his alleged "rag rule" so far as to permit committeemen to explain their vote upon roll call.

It was noted that Committeemen Heney, California; Harris, Kansas; Carrington, Maryland; Cowles, North Carolina; Morton, Oklahoma; Way, South Dakota, and Cady, Wisconsin—all Roosevelt supporters—were not in attendance at the meeting.

The minority's first move was made through Committeeman Halbert of Minnesota, for a recess, in order that the Rooseveltites might further confer. The motion was voted down, and in the squabble that ensued Chairman Devine ordered Halbert to sit down. The Minnesotan kept his feet, but finally sat down when Devine directed the sergeant-at-arms to enforce his order.

WON'T AID STANDPATTER

Fighting Bob Notifies the Convention Leaders He Will Not Support a Conservative

(By A. M. Brayton) COLISEUM, Chicago, June 20.—For three hours this morning the nomination of Robert M. La Follette for the presidency was a distinct possibility. After the positive announcement was made that Roosevelt would bolt today the convention officials, believing the destruction of the party inevitable unless they surrendered to popular demands and determined not to give it to Roosevelt, got into touch with Roe and Houser and asked upon what terms La Follette would save the organization. La Follette's manager sent back this word:

"La Follette for president. Governor Hadley for vice president. La Follette's platform intact." It was a hard bargain for the Old Guard, but at noon they had it under serious consideration. However, Roosevelt's release of his delegates may have killed the opportunity.

La Follette has just notified the convention leaders he will not support the party nominee if it is a standpatter.

The strategy of the situation is based upon proposition as follows:

- (1) If the convention nominates Taft or another standpatter the opposition of La Follette will insure his defeat at the polls.
- (2) They have already decided Cummins is a negative candidate whose strength is unequal to the task.
- (3) Borah has no national following.
- (4) If they nominate Hadley, Col. Roosevelt will claim he forced it and it is his victory. This they will not permit.
- (5) They are sure they can win with La Follette but "Big Business" which they represent fears him more than any other man.

It is a bitter pill—will they swallow it and pay the price of humiliating Theodore Roosevelt? They control; they can do as they please. What action they shall take will be determined between now and four o'clock when the convention reconvenes and Roosevelt will formally release his delegates.

COLONEL IS RESPONSIBLE

Oyster Bay Man Accepts All Outcome of His Act in Creating New Party

A plan of silent non-participation in the doings of the convention was adopted by the Roosevelt delegates at a meeting this afternoon, held in the Congress hotel. A resolution was offered to this effect by Henry Allen of Kansas and was adopted.

CHICAGO, June 20.—Col. Roosevelt today decided to take the bit in his teeth and repudiate the present republican convention without further delay. In a carefully prepared statement which he read to his personal advisers and announced would be printed and handed to all his delegates today the colonel announced his willingness to lead an independent fight for the principles of the progressive movement and called upon such of his friends as placed these principles above party loyalty to join him in the fight. He promised to make the fight to the finish, regardless of consequences and regardless of the number of his followers. He thanked his friends in the republican organization and the party who have fought with him up to the present time and released them from any obligation other than their own desire to join him in the fight for principle.

Makes Statement

Prior to the issuance of this formal statement to his delegates, Colonel Roosevelt issued a short signed statement to newspapermen who had besieged his door for an hour, following a wild series of reports. The colonel's declaration was:

"The time has come when I feel that I must make certain statements—not merely to honestly elected members of the republican national convention but to the rank and file of the republican party and to the honest people of the entire nation. I went into this fight for certain principles. At the moment I can only serve these principles by continuing to bear the personal responsibility which their advocacy has brought me."

VIROQUA, WIS.

Monday morning Miss Nettie Anderson returned to her home in Soldiers Grove after visiting Margaret Graves of this city for a few days.

During the latter part of last week Mr. and Mrs. Judson Drake were called to Sylvan, Wis., because of the illness of their daughter, Mrs. Geo. Koch.

Last Thursday evening the Vernon County Training school held commencement exercises in the assembly room of the high school building.

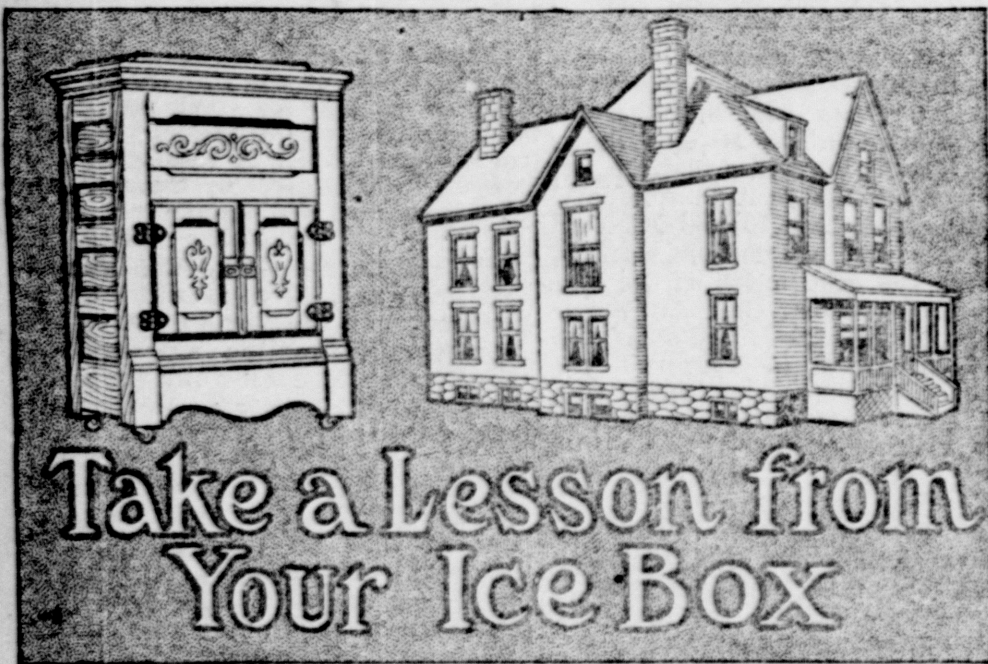

Harvey C. Brown spoke of the public school and of the importance of people struggling with their difficulties individually, yet working in perfect harmony with others. Many pretty songs were given under the direction of their music teacher, Eleanor Thomas.

The program closed after the benediction by Rev. Barber. The room was crowded, many of the audience being compelled to stand because of lack of chairs with which to seat such a large number. Friday night the Alumni banquet was given by the Vernon County Training school. Supper was served by the Methodist Aid society to one hundred and seventy. Toastmaster Jake McCoy, after giving a speech entitled "Woman," took charge of the program. Members from each of the five classes which have finished, including this year's seniors, responded to toasts. Music was rendered by a double chorus, a duet by Gladys Gelsrup and Miss Thomas and a solo by Miss Thomas.

The members of the Training school presented Miss Thomas a gift as a token of their appreciation for all that she had done for them. Members of the Training school board and faculty also responded with toasts after which the program closed with our national song, "America." All had a friendly chat with old and new friends afterwards.

Take a Lesson from Your Ice Box

SISTER, consider the humble ice-box. Brother, reflect how your ice-box provides better shelter for your cold beans and hash than your house furnishes your family!

The walls of an ice-box must keep the outside heat from the interior cold. But, don't forget that they would keep the heat and cold apart just as effectively if the heat were inside and the cold outside. Heat and cold are merely opposite poles of the same natural appearance. Just like white and black, they are both governed by the same natural laws.

In building an ice-box, these natural laws must be met scientifically. That's why the best refrigerators are built with walls lined with

Linofelt
Linen Felt made from Flax Fibre

Linofelt does meet scientifically the laws governing heat-and-cold insulation, and it does so better than any other material capable of use in building. E. g., in stopping the passage of heat or cold quarter-inch Linofelt is much more effective than 38 thicknesses of building-paper.

Linofelt is made of the fibrous stalks of the flax plant, treated by secret processes and steam-cooked in chemicals. They are then batted and stitched into a quilt between two sheets of building-paper. For general building purposes it comes one-quarter inch thick, in rolls 200 feet long and 3 feet wide.

Used in the walls of your house instead of building-paper, Linofelt will save 40 per cent of your fuel bills every winter. Obviously, therefore, Linofelt will also keep your house amazingly cool in summer.

These figures are from hundreds of actual tests. Every day more and more people are showing the same regard for their family's health and comfort that they do for hash and beans in their ice-boxes. Linofelt costs so little and gives so much!

There's a way to get much of its benefit in your present house today. Call up our local agents and ask how. Do it now, and also write us for vitally important and interesting information.

Additional for Second Grade

Physical geography, American literature, composition and library methods.

Additional for First Grade

English literature, theory and art of teaching, algebra, physics, and English history.

Convention Sidelights

Kermit Roosevelt is an assistant sergeant-at-arms at the convention. Beyond wearing a badge he is not required to do any assisting. In fact the aide in which Kermit is assigned was so crowded today with constructive sergeants that the police ordered half of them out. The ex-president's son finally obtained a seat on the floor.

Bob and Bill La Follette, the 14 and 16 year old sons of Wisconsin's candidate, are booming their father by distributing red La Follette hat bands to everybody who is willing to wear them.

Patrick Halloran of Edison, Wash., "elected" Senator Root as temporary chairman, his being the 540th vote cast for the New Yorker, the last vote Root needed to cinch his job.

Prisoners of war literally are the handmen in the Coliseum, perched 100 feet above the crowds in a swinging balcony near the roof. They play until the convention convenes and then sit idle until the adjournment.

When Victor Rosewater, chairman of the national committee, presented his gavel to Senator Root, temporary chairman, the diminutive engineer of the steam roller, retired permanently from active duty. He is ousted from the committee by R. B. Howell of Omaha, and takes a back seat as a bystander during the remainder of the convention.

"No Smoking" is a sign rigorously observed, and causing nervous spasms through a large part of the sessions. "Dry" smokers are the resources of "Boss" Flinn, Governor Johnson, Colonel New, "Big Steve" Stevenson and others. Flinn uses the same cigar during an entire session, carefully tucking it in his pocket during outbursts against the steam roller.

Senator Root made his keynote speech to the accompaniment of whistling brooms wielded by janitors in the galleries. The white wings began clearing out immediately after the public left, disregarding the august efforts of the distinguished New Yorker.

The convention is to furnish material for a drama.

Among those present is Miss Harriet Ford, the woman playwright who collaborated with Medill Patterson in writing "The Fourth Estate," and who is now working with Harvey O'Higgins to create a stage production in which Detective William Burns' exploits will be dramatized.

To Regain a Healthy, Girlish Complexion

(From the Feminine World.)

If you would have a clear, fresh, girlish complexion, one ounce of ordinary mercurized wax will aid you in this direction more than shelves full of cosmetics. It produces a natural beauty. This wax, procurable at any drug store, completely absorbs a bad complexion, revealing the healthy young skin underneath. Its work is done so gradually, day by day, that no inconvenience is caused. The wax is applied at night like cold cream, and removed in the morning with soap and water.

Another valuable rejuvenating treatment—if you have wrinkles, or your skin is flabby and saggy—is to bathe your face in a solution of powdered salolite, 1 oz., dissolved in 1/2 pint witch hazel. This has a remarkable action in smoothing out the lines and "firming up" the loosened tissue.

TASTE, SMELL AND HEARING RESTORED

A Simple, Harmless Remedy Quickly Relieves Catarrhal Deafness.

The thousands who suffer the miseries of catarrh, and claim they have never found a cure, can get instant relief by simply anointing the nostrils with Ely's Cream Balm.

Unlike internal medicines which upset the stomach, or strong snuffs which only aggravate the trouble, this cleansing, healing, antiseptic balm instantly reaches the seat of the trouble, stops the nasty discharge, clears the nose, head and throat, and brings back the sense of taste, smell and hearing. More than this, it strengthens the weakened, diseased tissues, thus protecting you against a return of the trouble.

Nasal catarrh is an inflammation of the membrane lining the air passages, and cannot be reached with mixtures taken into the stomach or with snuffs and powders which only cause additional irritation. Don't waste time on them. Get a fifty cent bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist, and after using it for a day you will wish you had tried it sooner. Agent, O. T. Erhart.

with Robert Hilliard starring as the sleuth, Miss Ford believes that many of the successful plays of the next few years will have politics as their theme and has therefore come on to get into the "atmosphere" of the most strenuous convention in years. She is a T. R. rooster.

The Roosevelt general headquarters are on the second floor of the Congress hotel, just above the main entrance.

It was a night of wild hilarity last night for thousands on both sides, the Roosevelt supporters professing certainty of victory in nominating the national ticket and the Taftites flushed with their in electing Root.

The wildest scene of all was enacted in the Pompeian room of the Congress hotel, where yell followed yell in various parts of the gay throng at the tables and brought the assemblage to its feet time and again with a false alarm that Roosevelt or some other celebrity had hove in sight.

Gayest of all was a party of Taft and Rooseveltites who fraternized at a table near the fountain. Finally a dare was sprung, with a woman's laugh backing it up, and one of the men, waving aloft a Taft banner and shouting a laughing defiance to the others, sprang into the beautiful Pompeian fountain in the center of the room. Heedless of the water that splashed and sprinkled over and about him, he scrambled to the top and planted his banner in the spouting crest of the fountain. There was a crash—his foot plunged through the glass at the top of the fountain. A rush of waiters and a hurry police call took him by storm and he was led away from the place in custody.

Because there is always music there and more noise among the Rooseveltites than over among the Taft outfit, the crowds seem to drift over to the strenuous one's camp. Stairs and elevators are congested to the suffocating point.

Today the hotel management decided hereafter to make visitors to the Roosevelt headquarters walk up the flight of stairs. Orders were issued to the elevator conductors not to take passengers for the second floor. The wise ones in the crowd, however, took the "lift" to the third floor and walked down a flight.

Noise making apparatus among delegates is conspicuous by its absence at this convention. A few of the delegates bot by today with megaphones, but there wasn't a horn or whistle to be heard anywhere.

A colored delegate from South Carolina today is nursing a throat with a real raspy feeling. Yesterday the delegate discovered he could pull a perfect imitation of a Mississippi steamboat whistle. He and his friends were so elated with this discovery that the man with the voice worked overtime. Not today, though.

Mrs. William Borah, wife of the Idaho senator, did not remain in the Coliseum any longer than she could help after Root's election was announced. Pulling her hat back to the middle of her head from the side, she said: "Isn't it too bad, but it doesn't mean that Taft has the nomination by any means."

It was not a picnic party that started out from the downtown hotels this morning. The men with the baskets were carrying lunch to the Coliseum for the wives of the delegates and prominent visiting politicians who went to the convention hall to remain all day.

In order to extend the work of the League of Republican clubs throughout the national convention, the republicans of Hawaii have raised $10,000 which has been turned to the national organization.

Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt attended the convention dressed in brown and wearing a large white hat trimmed with pink roses. Mrs. Vanderbilt avoids the hotel lobby crowds, and even has her meals served in her room.

Illustrious writers who are working as reporters at the convention ran about in circles today. William Jennings Bryan was hurrying to find Richard Harding Davis to get an interview. The same motive urged Peter Newell to follow W. J. B. Peter Dunne (Mr. Dooley) was hunting Newell and Hamilton Wright Mabie was looking for Dunne. George Ade hove in sight seeking an interview with Mabie. Ade was just disappearing when John Temple Graves came hunting for an interview. Graves was being sought by Samuel G. Blythe;

Blythe by William Allen White; White by Bruno Lessing; Lessing by Elbert Hubbard, and Hubbard's views on questions of public interest were being sought by Richard Harding Davis.

There are no flies whatever on John P. Green of New Orleans, La., or some place in that vicinity. He's here viewing the convention.

"You know," said Green, to an admiring circle in the hotel lobby, "I got in and couldn't find a blessed bed to sleep in. Everything full. Know what I did? I lined up the night owl bunch—chaps that stick around in conferences and bars and places nights, got close to them and borrowed their beds until 2 or 3 in the morning when they come in. I turn in at 7 or 8."

Eugene Zimmerman, railroad magnate and father of the Duchess of Manchester, now announces that he is not going to bolt the United States if Roosevelt comes back to the presidency. About a year ago he declared he would become a citizen of Great Britain if Roosevelt was elected again. He is now for him.

George W. Perkins reached down into his pocket to find a quarter for a messenger boy. All he could dig up was one dime. He then made a touch off Medill McCormick for the quarter. And yet they say he is the barometer of the Roosevelt campaign.

One of the interesting sights of the convention is Bill Barnes of New York laughing at Bill Flinn of Pittsburg. Barnes' laughter starts in his stomach and works up gradually until it reaches his eyes. Bill Flinn laughs back at Bill Barnes through his teeth.

Fifty Chicago girls today engaged in the task of collecting $5,000 from convention delegates and visitors for the benefit of the Frances Willard hospital. They are selling flowers. Chauncey Depew paid $5 for one American beauty.

Because everyone knows how to do a thing better than the one who is doing it nobody does.

Miss Eva Brown came Sunday from Hagniam, Wash., to visit with friends and relatives. She will leave Friday for Arkansas where she will spend a month. She expects to return to this city to spend a few weeks before her return home.

Miss Alta Barber returned from Minneapolis Saturday where she spent a few weeks with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Colburn of West Salem spent a few days this week with the later's parents, Dr. and Mrs. George Dunlap.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Littlejohn of Baraboo, Wis., who have been visiting relatives here the past week, returned home Tuesday.

Mrs. Attenberg returned to her home at Trempealeau Tuesday after spending a few days with her daughter, Mrs. F. I. Phelps.

W. E. Morris left for his home at Madison, Wis., Tuesday, to spend the summer with his parents.

Health in POSTUM

There's no injurious caffeine (the drug in tea and coffee) or other harmful ingredients in this famous Table Beverage.

Thousands of housewives are learning that not only economy of purse but better health follows the change to Postum.

Among the many common ailments caused by thoughtless habits of living are headache, listlessness, indigestion, irritability, sleeplessness, and other disagreeable symptoms of disturbed nerves, digestion and circulation, often due to tea and coffee drinking.

If interested in health and the good things that naturally go with it, why not try a package of Postum from your grocer.

For seventeen years Postum has proven a good friend to former tea and coffee drinkers who felt something was wrong, but didn't know the cause.

If this fits you—
Think it over.

"There's a Reason" for Postum

Postum Cereal Company, Limited, Battle Creek, Michigan.

AN OLD TIMER
Has Had Experience.

A woman who has used Postum since it came upon the market knows from experience the wisdom of using Postum in place of tea or coffee if one values health and a clear brain. She says:

"At the time Postum was first put on the market I was suffering from nervous dyspepsia, and my physician had repeatedly told me not to use tea or coffee. Finally I decided to take his advice and try Postum. I got a package and had it carefully prepared, finding it delicious to the taste. So I continued its use and very soon its beneficial effects convinced me of its value, for I got well of my nervousness and dyspepsia."

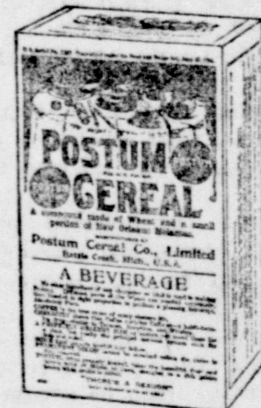

"My husband had been drinking coffee all his life until it had affected his nerves terribly, and I persuaded him to shift to Postum. It was easy to get him to make the change, for Postum is so delicious. It certainly worked wonder for him."

"We soon learned that Postum does not exhilarate or depress and does not stimulate, but steadily and honestly strengthens the nerves and the stomach."

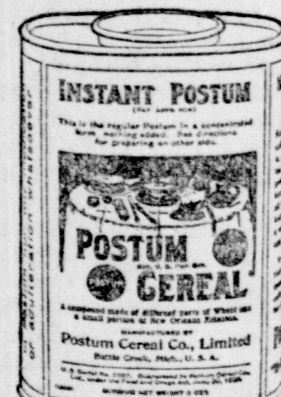

"To make a long story short, our entire family continued to use Postum with satisfying results, as shown in our fine condition of health."

Better health follows the use of Postum in place of tea and coffee, sometimes in a very marked manner. "There's a Reason."

THE VEGETABLE DIET
DON'T STAND TEST

About the time that a woman, subsisting only on vegetables, walked all the way from New York to Chicago in 42 days, a distinguished scientist was making experiments with the vegetable diet, as against the meat diet, upon rats. The woman proved that life in much of its vigor could be maintained with only vegetables for food, but the distinguished professor's conclusions are different.

According to the observations of Professor Slonaker, rats which ate everything they could get were much more active and vigorously did more work than the vegetarian rats, the average ratio of the efficiency being seven and a half to one. This difference in activity did not become noticeable in any extent until about two or three months after the experiment began.

Professor Slonaker placed four rats, male and female, of the same parentage and age, in rotary cages with speedometers attached. At the end of 25 months the record of the meat-eating female rat was 5,447 miles, while the meat-eating male rat had 1,477 miles to his credit. The female vegetable fed rat covered 447 miles and the vegetable fed male rat only 200 miles.

The vegetarian rats became old earlier and their growth was greatly retarded. The general conditions of the others were very much better, the vegetarians being frail, weak and without energy. While the average life of the omnivorous rat was 1,620 days, that of the vegetarians was 655 days only.

To what extent these very striking results may be applied to man is difficult to determine.

It is to be remembered that the rat, like man, is by nature an omnivorous animal. Professor Slonaker points out that numerous recorded observations on man with respect to the effects of diets seem to indicate that he does more work, attains greater stature and accomplishes more both mentally and physically on a mixed diet than on a vegetable diet or almost exclusively vegetable diet.

The Journal of the American Medical association concludes that there is a very strong likelihood then that the results of the experiments on the white rat would be duplicated in the case of man if he were subjected to similar conditions throughout his lifetime.

The experiment of Professor Slonaker, without perhaps settling anything, adds to the joy of life as a contribution to the perennial discussion of vegetarianism versus a mixed diet. And it also shows that in the case of the rat, as Mr. Kipling alleges in the case of the human being, the female of the species is pretty deadly.

ARIZONA LAUGHS AT "BILL" TAFT

Mr. Taft no doubt views with considerable chagrin the outcome of his fight against a constitutional clause proposed by the incoming state of Arizona that would have provided for the recall of judges in that commonwealth. He insisted upon the elimination of that clause before he would sign the statehood bill. Arizona consented, making little fuss about the matter.

But in its first legislative session Arizona has passed the proper legislation looking to the submission of an amendment of its constitution incorporating therein the judicial recall; one branch of its legislature passed the resolution unanimously and in the other there were but two dissenting votes. Without question the voters of Arizona will vote to adopt the amendment.

Just what Mr. Taft gained by his uncalled for interference with the affairs of a people about to enter upon statehood one cannot see. Aside from the item of expense incurred, he deprived the new state of nothing. He simply had his way—for a minute.

A shower of black rain in Hampshire, England, has led meteorologists to recall that in November, 1819, ink-black rain fell steadily for two hours in New York. But red rain is considerably more common and in 1885 there was blood-red rain in Great Britain. The London Chronicle says: "The red hue was not merely on the surface; when, one squeezed the pellets fingers were deeply stained."

Two women who arranged to fight a duel, because both wished to marry the same man, settled it by each marrying her second. Much-loved men are sometimes lucky.

A New York family is dying from drinking buttermilk, which contained ptomaine poisoning. It is believed the cow cut her foot on a tin can.

An Ohio man is to be cured of the gambling habit by an operation on his head. Our pocketbook was probably long long ago.

Banker Morse probably does not want a third consecutive term or even a second.

Another Caddie Story

The golfer had engaged a boy as caddie, and after a trial dismissed him. His mother called to ascertain the reason, and was informed that he was far too slow and lazy. "Well, sir," said the woman, "he walks in his sleep—he's what they call a somnambulist, an he's no stronger as other boys, golfer." "Yes, yes," interrupted the golfer, "that's all right. I could perfectly well do with a caddie who walks in his sleep, but what I can't do is to put up with one who sleeps in his walk."

The Irish Boy Speaks
At a Scriptural examination a small Irish boy was asked: "What will become of the proud man?" "He will be turned into an animal," was the quick reply. "Why do you say that, Mike?" said the astonished teacher. "Because," explained the lad, "the Bible says that he that humbly himself shall be exalted, and he that exalteth himself shall be a waste."

Paddy Again

One day an Irishman met an Englishman, and accosted him thus: "Do you know in what month of the year my wife talks the least?" "Well, I suppose when she catches cold and loses her voice," said the Englishman. "Not at all. It is in February," said Paddy. "Why is that?" asked the Englishman. "Because February has the fewest days," said Paddy.

The Sermon-Tasters

Three hearers of the Rev. Dr. X. were talking after the sermon. "We must admit," remarked the first, "that the doctor dives deeper into his subject than any other preacher."

"Yes," said the second, "and staves longer." "And comes up drier," added the third.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

Compensation
The laurels fair of Tennyson were of a pleasing kind, the which I should have gladly won had I but had the mind. To be a man like that, of course, would mighty pleasing be; But When Polly says, "I love you!" I'm glad I'm only me!

To win a fame that of Poe and write such wondrous things as from his pen in constant flow gave his weird spirit wings would most delightful be, I think, fraught even with ecstasy; But

When Polly calls me "Dearest!" I'm glad I'm only me!

Sometimes I've envied Milton's fame, as well as that of Lamb; I've viewed with jealous eyes the name of dear old O. Khayyam. I've wished I might be any one of all that splendid three; But When Polly smiles to me, I'm glad I'm only me!

There's Emerson and Addison and all Fame's other sons, from Edison and Madison back to the earliest ones who've cheered the world and blest the soul with deeds of victory; But When Polly's eyes rest on me, I'm glad I'm only me!

I've never done an earthly thing in letters or the state to give my name and fame the ring unquestionably great, and sometimes I sit down and moan my sad obscurity; But

When Polly says, "Come, kiss me!" I'm glad I'm only me!

—Judge.

Discussing Matrimony

A grumpy man was discussing matrimony the other day. Said he, "Matrimony, in my opinion, is a little too much idealized. These blushing brides, radiant under their white veils in a glitter of sunshine, seem capable of changing earth into heaven, but, as a matter of fact, they are not capable of anything of the sort. I am in hearty sympathy with old Brown, to whom young Black said at a wedding—'A good wife can make a veritable angel of a man.'"

"Yes, that's so," old Brown agreed. "My wife came near making one of me with her first batch of homemade buns!"

Suggestive Texts

At a church union meeting in Glasgow an Aberdeenshire minister sympathized with a colleague from Inverness for having to labour in a community which was absolutely devoid of the sense of humor. He had occasion, he said, to use an Inverness bedroom once, and immediately above the sleeping cot he found the suggestive text—"Occupy till I come," while on the opposite wall there was hung the old familiar legend—"What is home without a mother?" and close beside the almost equally familiar "Peace, perfect peace."

A Thrilling Shot

Old Joe was talking, as usual, for the edification of the company at the Blue Pig, and football experiences became the theme. "I shall never forget one final," said he. "We were drawn one all—with about a minute to go, when I got the ball. Off I went, passing man after man, till I got

"Got My Sore Foot in It Right!—TIZ"

"A TIZ Bath, My Boy, a TIZ Bath! You Can't Beat It For Sore Feet, Corns and Bunions!"

Is this man a tender-foot? No. He is joy-walker—one who uses TIZ and gets from the feet a happiness one never felt before.

"Sure! I Use TIZ Every Time for Any Foot Trouble."

When your feet are so tired they feel like stumps, when they ache as that they hurt you up to your heart when you shamble your feet along and it seems as though all the misery you ever had has settled in your feet, look at the happy TIZ man in the picture.

You can be happy-footed just the same. If you have corns and bunions that everybody seems to step on, just think of this happy TIZ man. He had corns and bunions, too. This man used TIZ, and now he has no more tender, raw, chafed, blistered, swollen, tired, smelly feet, corns, callouses or bunions.

As soon as you put your feet in a TIZ bath, you feel the happiness soaking in. It's like mountain ozone to lungs.

Nothing else but TIZ can give you this happy foot feeling. Don't accept any substitutes.

TIZ, 25 cents a box, sold everywhere, or sent direct, on receipt of price, by Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill. Recommended by all Drug Stores, department and general stores.

YOUR GRAY HAIRS QUICKLY VANISH

A Harmless Remedy, Made from Garden Sage, Restores Color to Gray Hair.

A feeling of sadness accompanies the discovery of the first gray hairs which unfortunately are looked upon as heralds of advancing age. Gray hair, however handsome it may be, makes a person look old. We all know the advantages of being young. Aside from the good impression a youthful appearance makes on others, simply knowing that you are "looking fit" gives one courage to undertake and accomplish things. So why suffer the handicap of looking old on account of gray hairs, when a simple remedy will give your hair youthful and color and beauty in a few days' time?

Most people know that common garden sage acts as a color restorer and scalp tonic as well. Our grandmothers used a "Sage Tea" for keeping their hair dark, soft and luxuriant. In Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy we have an ideal preparation of Sage, combined with Sulphur and other valuable remedies for dandruff, itching scalp and thin, weak hair that is split at the ends or constantly coming out. A few applications of this valuable remedy will bring back the color, and in a short time it will remove every trace of dandruff and greatly improve the growth and appearance of the hair.

Get a fifty cent bottle from your druggist today and notice the difference in your hair after a few days' treatment. All druggists sell it, under guarantee that the money will be refunded if the remedy is not exactly as represented.

within range, and then I paused. I can hear the crowd roaring now. "Shoot, man, shoot!" Drawing one foot well back, I let fly, and the yell that went up—"Oh!" (with a sigh of pain). "Well, Joe, did you score?" asked one impatient listener. "Score! Gad! It took the missus ten minutes to get the bed rail from between my toes."

In a Terrible Hurry

In a certain barber shop in Glasgow some little time ago a man was sitting in a chair. He was in a terrible hurry to catch a train. The boy who was lathering him was slowly going backward and forward with the shaving brush, and the man's temper was fast breaking bounds. "Hurry up, Tommy!" he exclaimed. But still the boy went no quicker. At last the man could stand it no longer. "Keep your brush still, my lad," he shouted, "and I'll wag my head!"

SALZER'S COMPANY ENJOYS PROSPERITY

The United States Annuity and Life Insurance company of Chicago, Ill., of which our townsman, Henry A. Salzer, is president, is enjoying remarkable growth. Its increase for the first five months of 1912 over 1911 shows: In volume of 1912 over 109 per cent, and increase of premiums received, 105 per cent.

The Insurance Critic of New York says of this vigorous young company (it was six years old last March): "The premiums of which over 80 per cent renewed in 1911, show a remarkable and gratifying achievement and one which indicates a most satisfactory condition of mind on the part of the policy-holders with the management."

BIGGEST CROWDS EVER IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, June 20.—The hotels are making the greater profits since the world's fair out of the convention crowds. All records for attendance at the Michigan avenue hostilities were broken today. Last night the biggest crowd that has ever packed the lobbies of the Congress, moved slowly through the corridors—and the most of the male contingent sought the bar. Manager Burke today estimated that the hotel entertained 3,500 persons. Twenty-six bartenders dispensed good cheer—the largest number ever on duty at the Congress.

CAN'T SELL TICKETS TO THE CONVENTION

CHICAGO, June 20.—Because many counterfeit tickets are in circulation and the promises of fighting on the floor have not been up to the advance notices, the ticket speculators of Chicago have been hard hit. Many of them are loaded up with tickets for which they paid a uniform price of fifteen dollars a set. Today the market price of the pastebords for the remainder of the sessions had dropped to ten dollars with very few takers.

MIDWAY, WIS.

The Brice Prairie Cemetery society will be entertained by Mrs. John Terpstra the 27th of June.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Westerhouse, Mr. and Mrs. O. Terpstra and children spent the day Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. H. Westerhouse.

Gene Whitbeck and Richard Medina have gone to Sparta to build a silo for Mr. Lyle Heath.

Mr. and Mrs. Bronno Mulder visited with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sjolander.

"Then you can consider yourself engaged, Mr. Ellsworth. My name is Ephraim Bond. Your income will be about thirty-one hundred dollars a year."

"Are you not going a little fast, Mr. Bond?" I asked. "You have not told me as yet how I am to earn this money?"

"Frankly, Ellsworth, you ask quite too many questions to lease me. What does it matter to you what you have to do? I give you my word that you will receive the income. I will deed the principal to that effect this afternoon."

"Frankly, Mr. Bond," I said, with rising anger, "I don't care for the way you do business. I do not even feel certain of your honesty. Can you tell me explicitly what it is you want me to do, or shall we consider the interview closed?"

"You're a young fool," he snapped impatiently, "and I'm an old fool to waste my time over you. There are forty other men waiting in the next room." He peered at me from beneath the overhanging brows, met my eye and looked away. "All I want you to do is to marry my niece," he fretfully concluded. "She is rather good looking, if that is of any interest to you."

"To marry—your niece?"

"Yes, Ellsworth, marry her. There is nothing dishonest in that, is there?"

My brain whirled. I had never spoken two words to any other grown woman than my mother in my life since I had entered college. God knows I had dreamed of them often enough, but to speak to a woman woman in friendship, to marry her—the very suggestion of it dazed me.

"But the lady—?" I stammered. "Is perfectly willing to marry the man I choose for her."

"But—but why do you choose me?"

Mr. Bond rose abruptly from his chair. "See here, Ellsworth," he said coldly, "that at least is none of your business. Perhaps I think you are the finest man in the world. Perhaps I like the thought of you because I am sure I know that no other woman will be likely to tempt you—once she has really seen you. Come, my carriage is waiting, and I am a very busy man."

"Do you want me to come now, on the instant?"

"I thought that you felt sure that you could decide on any matter quickly."

"I will come," said I, and took my hat from the table. At least I would find out what the thing was all about, what the lady had to say in the matter. Perhaps, indeed, the man was really insane, and this girl, whoever she was, was actually in need of help.

"That's better," said Mr. Bond. "Peters, you may dismiss the other applicants."

The Contract.

We sat in silence in Ephraim Bond's closed coupe during the drive to the house. I had never heard of my employer in my life, and was much interested in watching our direction, speculating with a certain mental detachment as we drove along, on the probable neighborhood of his residence. When we turned into Fifth Avenue I thought that we were about to cross the Park, and was no little surprised that our course continued straight up-town. But my surprise was even greater when we drew up before the steps of a large granite house in the upper seventies.

The door was opened for us by a gray-haired negro, who peered at me almost rudely, and shuffled into the darkness at the farther end of the hallway, with Mr. Bond's showed me the way into a reception-room, which was as poorly lighted as the hall.

"I will call my niece," he said hurriedly, and as hurriedly would have left the room had I not laid a detaining hand on his sleeve.

"Just one moment, Mr. Bond," said I. "I would like to see your niece alone before there is any talk of this marriage between us."

"I see no reason for it," he answered coldly.

"I do," I said. "You might as well understand me, once and for all, sir. This is I think you will admit, an unusual proceeding. I have come with you so far, but now that I am here we must deal openly. Not only must your niece know what manner of a man I am, but I must also be sure that she moves in this strange affair of her own free will, that this bargain is as much her desire as it is your strange woman if she consents without coercion to marry a man branded as I am."

Ephraim Bond smiled in the semi-darkness. "You are very suspicious, Mr. Ellsworth. But, after all, I see no reason why I should not satisfy your cautious nobility. I won't intrude at all on your meeting. My niece will come down alone, and you can introduce yourselves."

Before I could answer he had left the room.

I had wished to question him

The Human Heart

The heart is a wonderful double pump, through the action of which the blood stream is kept sweeping round and round through the body at the rate of seven miles an hour. "Remember this, that our bodies will not stand the strain of over-work without good, pure blood any more than the engine can run smoothly without oil." After many years of study in the active practice of medicine, Dr. R. V. Pierce found that when the stomach was out of order, the blood impure and there were symptoms of general breakdown, a tonic made of the glyceric extract of certain roots was the best corrective. This he called further, to spare the girl the embarrassment of any awkward step on my part; but her uncle's leaving-taking had been so abrupt that I was left with my questions upon my lips. I stepped over and drew the heavy window curtains back as far as they would go, letting in a little of the waning May sunshine. It would be well for two people embarking upon such an enterprise, for this unknown girl and this chance-found man, to see one another plainly, to meet face to face in the open sunlight.

I wondered what sort of a woman she would prove to be. Her uncle seemed very sure of her, of the way she would bear herself in this meeting with a strange and hideously marked man, who came in answer to a newspaper advertisement to marry her for his liking. Perhaps she was unfortunate in some

MARRIAGE BUG BUSY

Thirty-two marriage licenses for eighteen days of the month of June for La Crosse county leads to the conclusion that the "marriage bug" is as active during the present month of brides as ever. The average for this county is thirty licenses per month.

One may learn by mistakes, but they shouldn't make up the whole curriculum.

Health and Beauty Helps

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN

Mrs. G.: Powder covers up but does not correct complexion faults. Use this simple lotion and your skin will assume its former youthful clearness and take on a charming tint: Dissolve 4 ounces spirum in ½ pint witch hazel (or hot water) and pour in 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine. Using the spirum lotion in place of powder overcomes the shiny, oily appearance and gives to a coarse, lifeless skin an exquisite fineness and healthy look. Even in hottest weather it is only necessary to apply the spirum lotion once a day, because perspiration does not spot it, and then, too, it is invisible when on.

Madge W.: I never advise the electric needle for superfluous growths, because delatone paste does the work quicker, more thoroughly and is devoid of pain. Mix some powdered delatone with water, then apply to objectionable hairs and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. This leaves the skin smooth and firm.

A. B.: Cutting the eyelashes is dangerous. I would advise applying pyroxin to lash-roots with thumb and forefinger, as this makes them grow long, curly and silky. Your growly eyebrows can be made to come in thick and beautiful by putting pyroxin on with finger-end. Use caution and don't get pyroxin where no hair is wanted.

V. M.: Soap was never intended for shampooing, because the "free" alkali it contains raises havoc with the scalp and hair-roots. Use canthox and you will find your dull, streaky, brittle hair will grow bright and even in color and be of a soft, silken texture. A teaspoonful canthox dissolved in a cup of hot water is ample for a delightful shampoo. This creates a wealth of rich, penetrating lather that thoroughly rids the hair and scalp of dust, dandruff and excess oil; and after rinsing, the hair dries quickly and takes on its former rich color and gloss.

Mrs. M. W.: Your blotchy, pimply skin proves that the blood is in a very unhealthy state and demands prompt action. Get ½ pint alcohol and in this put ½ cupful sugar, 1 ounce karende and hot water to make a quart. A tablespoonful before each meal is the proper dose. This soon cleanses the blood of impurities and clears the skin of pimples, blotches and sallowness, as well as builds you up and gives you complete health and full strength. For a face lotion, see answer to "Mrs. G."

P. A.: You will find my quinzoin hair and scalp tonic very invigorating for lifeless, itching scalps. To prepare, mix together ½ pint each alcohol and water, then add 1 ounce quinzoin. Rubbing a little at a time well into the scalp banishes dandruff and puts it in a healthy, pliant condition. Continued using restores the former gloss and rich color to the hair, as well as induces a luxuriant growth—all your own.

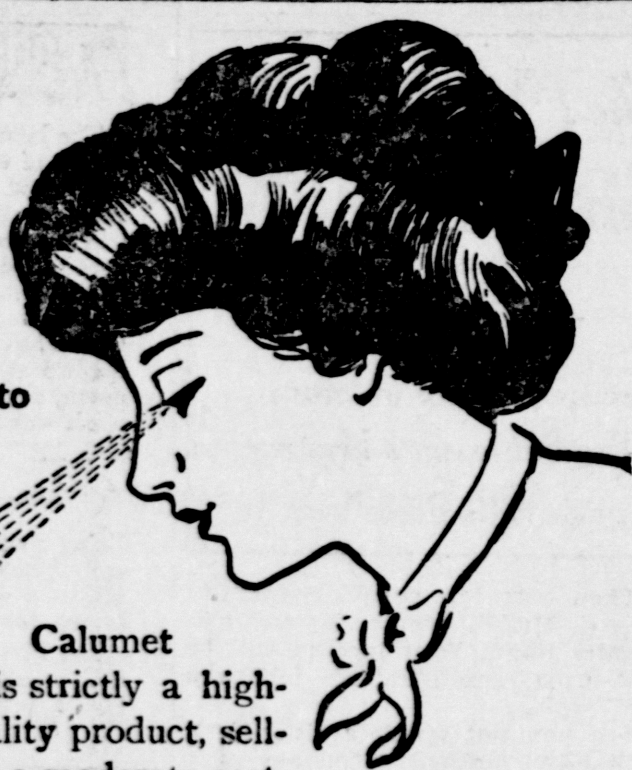

Lillian R.: You can safely recommend my crystals eye-tonic to your friends, for it is quite harmless and has a wonderfully soothing and strengthening effect on sore, aching or weak eyes. Here is the recipe: Dissolve 1 ounce crystals in a pint cold, pure water. Two or three drops should be put in the eyes each day. Thousands of my readers have used this simple eye-tonic to bring back the sparkle to dull eyes and very frequently people have been able to discard glasses after using it for a time.

P. X.: The fat around your abdomen will soon disappear once parnotis is used. This will also banish your double chin. To make, dissolve 4 ounces parnotis in 1½ pints hot water, and when it cools take a tablespoonful before each meal. Continue treatment until your weight is where you want it, and when you stop the treatment you need have no fear of the fat returning. This method does away with dieting or violent exercise and is the only safe way of which I know to actually reduce weight.

SAMPSON SEEKS MATCH JULY 4

Bosshard and Hurley Refuse to Accept Terms of North Side Mat Man

Although J. P. Moore, Young Sampson's manager, tried to get Hurley and Bosshard, St. Paul wrestlers, to come here on July 4 to meet Sampson in a bout at Copeland park, neither of these men will be here and Mr. Moore is looking for a good opponent for his man. He says that he will be willing to match Sampson against any wrestler who weighs 145 pounds, the bout to take place at Copeland Park on the Fourth of July.

Mr. Moore attempted to get Bosshard and Hurley here for a bout on July 4, but neither of these men would agree to terms. It was thought that a bout between Sampson and either of these prominent wrestlers would be a great drawing card, but, although Sampson was ready and willing to meet either one, they refused to come.

Both Hurley and Bosshard are well known to wrestling enthusiasts of this city as both men have appeared in bouts with Young Sampson, the well known local wrestler, who has been doing excellent work on the mat this year. Sampson defeated Bosshard in this city two years ago and the local wrestler met Hurley last winter in a match which ended in a draw. Efforts were made by Sampson and his manager to get another match with Hurley but Hurley has thus far refused to meet him although it was understood that he would come here on July 4.

J. P. Moore said this morning that any good wrestler who weighs 145 pounds would be taken on by Sampson for the bout on July 4. Sampson is in excellent condition now and he is capable of putting up a great fight as he has plainly demonstrated in all his matches this winter.

WANT COLLARLESS AMBASSADOR FIRED

SANTIAGO DE CUBA, June 20.—That he went about the streets without a collar, because, he said, Santiago was an uncivilized place, was one of the complaints of informal charges made today by the government against French Consul Bryos. In addition to this unconventional attire, Bryos was charged with backing the revolutionists, and it was asserted that he was the author of the proclamation by one of the negro rebels.

WHITE PIGEON BROUGHT LUCK

Perched on Wheel Box of the Fishing Boat and Gave It Fine Maiden Trip.

It is one of the pet beliefs of the fishing folk that when a white bird flies aboard a ship at sea good luck is bound to follow. And if a white bird happens to fly aboard a brand new craft it insures the vessel with all kinds of joy forever. Out on Georges, two weeks ago today, a little pigeon fluttered down on the deck of the good ship Mary, perching on the wheel box. Result—good luck. Although Capt. Whallen's boat struck mighty hard weather, it came through without a scratch and landed 130,000 pounds of mixed ground fish, mostly hake and cusk, which is pretty nearly the record catch for a maiden trip. The pigeon looked as though it had had some pretty hard luck itself before it fell in with the Mary, however. One of its wings was badly torn, as though a gull or a hawk had taken a piece out of it. The men aboard took good care of the pigeon, giving it plenty of food, although they made no attempt to confine it to any one part of the vessel. The bird made friends with every one, especially the cook, and refused to eat except out of the men's hands. As the Mary came up the harbor this morning, the bird was adeck. Abreast of Governor's Island he suddenly took wing and flew away. The men said it looked to them as though the bird had recognized his surroundings in the inner harbor and had flown for home.—Boston Globe.

Hint for Travelers.

Reading the dictionary for pleasure is not an unknown occupation, and there is the testimony of one well known man that, while traveling, he had found one etymological dictionary a "perpetual succession of pleasant surprises." Such a book is good for one who finds it hard to concentrate his mind amid the distractions of a journey.

Guides to Business Success.

Files a Bane of Life in Africa.

House flies are prevalent in South Africa during the months of October, November, December, January and February. As screen doors a 1 window are unknown there, the houses are filled with flies. Fly paper is now being used extensively.

FIGHT ON PARKER FOR CHAIRMANSHIP

Progressive Democrats Object to "Sage of Esopus" Following Bryan's Kick

BELL IS COMMONER'S CHOICE

Theodore E. Bell of California Is Choice of Nebraskan's Wing of Party

BALTIMORE, June 20.—There were many evidences today that progressives in the democratic national convention would not be satisfied with the selection of Judge Alton B. Parker of New York as temporary chairman and that a fight would be made against him.

When the sub-committee of the national committee went into session today Parker was the favorite with a majority of them, in spite of the fact that William J. Bryan was quoted by National Committeemen Josephus Daniels of Virginia as saying that Parker's selection would be "criminal folly."

Theodore E. Bell of California is being insistently boomed for permanent chairman. He is a friend of Bryan.

Aside from the opening of headquarters by the active candidates for the presidency—Clark, Wilson, Harmon and Underwood—and the activity of their press agents and boomers Baltimore will not take real interest in the democrats until the republicans at Chicago close.

It is conceded on all sides that the democrats will be influenced to a large extent by what happens in Chicago. All the managers for candidates here are making claims that are considered exaggerated and unwarranted by facts, yet none of them comes within two or three hundred votes of counting the necessary two-thirds majority of the convention, or 730 votes, for his man. The Clark people now claim the Missourian will go into the convention with nearly 500 votes; while Wilson's managers claim approximately 350 for him at the start, with Underwood and Harmon claims are about 100 each.

CHIPPEWA FALLS GETS CONVENTION

OCONOMOWOC, Wis., June 20.—The annual convention of the Wisconsin grand lodge of the Knights of Pythias selected Chippewa Falls for the next annual convention. Racine received 15 votes, Waupun 5, and Chippewa Falls 92.

Life of the Soil.

The soil may be said to be alive. It is a matrix supporting various groups of definite micro-organisms, and the investigations of the past few years indicate the possibility of determining by bacteriological diagnoses the crop producing capacities of different soils. It has been shown that the action of the nitrifying bacteria, especially in samples of soil, correlates fairly well with the productiveness of the same soils under field conditions.—Harper's Weekly.

WISCONSIN NEWS

WORK STARTED AT BLACK RIVER FALLS

BLACK RIVER FALLS, Wis., June 20.—Contracts were signed here on Tuesday by the relief committee and Levis and McDonal for the building of the piers base for the tainter gates and extension of the retaining wall. This includes all the coffer dams and blowing out of the old dam. The cost will be about $20,000 with probable extras. The same company also contracts to build the new power house at cost plus twelve and one half per cent. Twenty-nine thousand yards of dirt filling below the retaining wall will cost $4,500. The Modern Steel Structural company of Waukesha has the contract for eight 14 foot steel tainter gates at a cost of $6,228.

Dandruff Germs Are Responsible

Baldness and Most Hair Troubles Due to This Parasite, Which Destroys Hair Roots

Nobody wants to be bald! But a neglected scalp means falling hair, then BALDNESS. If you are troubled with itching scalp or falling hair, get rid of dandruff without delay. It destroys the hair roots, so that no new hair growth is possible.

Begin now using HAY'S HAIR HEALTH, the reliable dandruff remover. It destroys the dandruff germs and encourages a growth of youthful-looking hair. You won't have unsightly dandruff scales on your coat collar, or bald spots on your scalp if you use HAY'S HAIR HEALTH. W. W. White, Pastor Vienna (Md.) M. E. church, writes us: "I have used half a dozen different hair tonics, but I find HAY'S HAIR HEALTH the very best preparation I have ever used for dandruff." You can get it at Hoescher Bros., A. Bellevue's for 50c, or $1.00 per bottle, or from the Philo Hay Spec. Co., Newark, N. J.

ST. PAUL AFTER NEW INDUSTRY

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 20.—The general committee of Minnesota Elks has made arrangements with the Northern Pacific railway to carry the delegates, outside of the Twin City, to the annual Elks' convention, which will convene at Portland, July 8 to 13. The party will travel by special train.

The Great Northern road will run a special train for the accommodation of the St. Paul Lodge No. 59.

POSTMASTERS HOLD STATE CONVENTION

FARGO, N. D., June 20.—North Dakota postmasters and North Dakota rural mail carriers are both holding state sessions here today. The latter will be in session two days. Postmasters from both the Dakotas and Minnesota will meet tomorrow, and it is expected that at least 200 will be in attendance.

PIANIST REAPS RICH HARVEST

Crowd at Walter Goetzinger's Benefit Last Night
Token of Esteem for Genius

BIG PROGRAM IS VARIED

Pianist's Versatile Touch
Brings Out Musical
Idea as Thing of Beauty

(By Isador Tippmann)

"My idea is, that music ought to move the heart with sweet emotion, which a pianist will never effect by mere scrambling, thundering and bombastic arpeggios—at least not from me." Thus speaks the immortal Johann Sebastian Bach, the master of masters and when I hear Walter Goetzinger play the piano I am forcibly reminded of the truth of the above quoted sentence. A musical idea, no matter how insignificant, Goetzinger's versatile touch and musicianly treatment will transform it into a thing of beauty and no sound to him is meaningless. This alone is music.

Last evening the friends and admirers of the pianist had assembled at the Majestic theater for the purpose of showing their appreciation of Mr. Goetzinger's art and the high personal esteem and sympathy which they feel for Mr. and Mrs. Goetzinger.

Program is Varied

The program was well arranged and one of its chief features was the great variety offered. Mr. Goetzinger played a Rachmanoff Prelude and the Peer Gynt suite of Grieg. The pianist played both numbers very creditably and was particularly in his element in picturing the various scenes of Grieg's charming musical inspiration.

Mr. Kerr was in good voice and his solo "Gypsy John" and a charming encore number brought the popular singer much approval from the listeners.

The dramatic recitation of Mr. D. S. Grieg, the "Dagger Scene" from Macbeth was a most interesting number, full of dramatic intensity, artistically applied.

The violinists, J. Andre and D. Monty, played a De Beriot violin duet very well and responded to the generous applause by playing another number by the same composer.

Mr. Meikeljohn, our clever prestigitator, surprised and pleased immensely with a number of well chosen

PIANIST REAPS RICH HARVEST

Crowd at Walter Goetzinger's Benefit Last Night
Token of Esteem for Genius

BIG PROGRAM IS VARIED

Pianist's Versatile Touch
Brings Out Musical
Idea as Thing of Beauty

(By Isador Tippmann)

"My idea is, that music ought to move the heart with sweet emotion, which a pianist will never effect by mere scrambling, thundering and bombastic arpeggios—at least not from me." Thus speaks the immortal Johann Sebastian Bach, the master of masters and when I hear Walter Goetzinger play the piano I am forcibly reminded of the truth of the above quoted sentence. A musical idea, no matter how insignificant, Goetzinger's versatile touch and musicianly treatment will transform it into a thing of beauty and no sound to him is meaningless. This alone is music.

Last evening the friends and admirers of the pianist had assembled at the Majestic theater for the purpose of showing their appreciation of Mr. Goetzinger's art and the high personal esteem and sympathy which they feel for Mr. and Mrs. Goetzinger.

Program is Varied

The program was well arranged and one of its chief features was the great variety offered. Mr. Goetzinger played a Rachmanoff Prelude and the Peer Gynt suite of Grieg. The pianist played both numbers very creditably and was particularly in his element in picturing the various scenes of Grieg's charming musical inspiration.

Mr. Kerr was in good voice and his solo "Gypsy John" and a charming encore number brought the popular singer much approval from the listeners.

The dramatic recitation of Mr. D. S. Grieg, the "Dagger Scene" from Macbeth was a most interesting number, full of dramatic intensity, artistically applied.

The violinists, J. Andre and D. Monty, played a De Beriot violin duet very well and responded to the generous applause by playing another number by the same composer.

Mr. Meikeljohn, our clever prestigitator, surprised and pleased immensely with a number of well chosen

FOLA LA FOLLETTE WILL COME HERE

Senator's Daughter to Talk in Suffrage Cause in La Crosse in the Near Future

BOSSHARD IS IN THE FIGHT

Joins Conference at La Follette Headquarters;
Bob's Boys Young
Statesmen

(By A. M. Brayton.)

COLISEUM, Chicago, June 20.—Fola La Follette, daughter of Senator La Follette, talking with the writer today expressed pleasure at the prospect of visiting La Crosse shortly in the interest of the "votes for women" campaign. There is a tentative arrangement by which she hopes to deliver an address under the auspices of La Crosse leaders.

"It seems to me the suffrage movement should be made a part of the campaign for representative government," said the senator's gifted daughter.

Fola La Follette is the center of interest as she comes and goes in La Follette headquarters, but she isn't "the whole show." Bob and Phil La Follette, sons of the senator, both in their teens, are as lively a pair of young statesmen as any that ever clinched the bucking broncho, and are entertaining and lovable young men.

Senator Otto Bosshard arrived in Chicago yesterday and was an interested spectator at the convention, after which he appeared at La Follette headquarters where he was closeted with the leaders for two hours, after which he joined the sandshaking brigade about the hotel.

SEIDEL TALKS POLITICS

"The predominance of selfish motives has led Governor McGovern into committing the most foolish act in his career, one which may end his farther political progress and which I feel would justify Senator La Follette in waging a fight to defeat him in the next gubernatorial campaign," said Emil Seidel, former mayor of Milwaukee in this city today. "In permitting his nomination for the temporary chairmanship of the national convention, McGovern caused a split in the progressive delegates of Wisconsin which was disloyal and detrimental to the interests of the man whom his constituents had selected as their choice and I am of the opinion that selfish motives alone are responsible for his action. I can not predict the outcome of a fight between Lieutenant Governor Morris and McGovern."

In speaking on the probability of the two progressive factions and the two standpat factions of the republican and democratic parties, uniting and forming two new parties, Mr. Seidel said: "I think such an attempt will be made but it will be a failure."

SAYS EDUCATION IS BIG PROBLEM

Speaker at Normal Commencement Pleads for Well-Balanced Instruction

URGES RELIGIOUS TEACHING

Declares Training that Stops Short of Spiritual Work Misses the Mark

Declaring that the twentieth century is at last coming to realize the fact that the education of the young is the greatest problem that confronts it, and that women, too, are now receiving advantages which one hundred years ago, were never even prophesied, Dr. Herbert Willett of the University of Chicago, this morning at the normal school commencement exercises, delivered a strong address on "The Youth of the Twentieth Century." Dr. Willett has a magnetic personality and fine voice, which added greatly to the forcefulness of his address. The speaker said that the whole child should be educated and not any particular part, that all children should enjoy the privileges of modern educational institutions. He declared that many people have a wrong idea of what education, holding the common impression that text books alone can furnish the means of knowledge is wrong, that one has to study people themselves before one can have an educated mind. Knowledge of facts alone is not education, said Dr. Willett, but the taking of a few facts, and forming them into a synthesis with which to enable the mind to grasp other facts.

Physical Training Needed

Physical education is now recognized as a necessary element in the curriculum of all up-to-date institutions and the speaker cited cases of years ago when it was almost considered a disgrace to have a strong constitution. Woman's chances for education are not to be equalled in any other century and Dr. Willett declared that co-education or comradeship among the students of both sexes is one of the best incentives for efficient work. He quoted amusing cases of supposed dishonesty in schools for young men which only emphasized the advantages of co-education.

In conclusion, Dr. Willett made the statement that any education that stops short of religion is narrow and that there should be no sharp dividing line between the two as exists at the present time. The real aim of education, he said, is to make man a better member of social order and to implant all the virtues in the life of the republic.

The normal chorus sang "Misere" from "Il Trovatore," and the Ladies' Glee club rendered in excellent style Elgar's "The Snow." Professor Frederick Libke played a piano solo, "Cantique D'Amour," by Liszt, in a very musically manner. The presentation of diplomas followed with one hundred and nine receiving the coveted certificates from the hands of President Cotton, who was assisted by Professor J. O. Engleman. Rev. Dr. Faville pronounced the invocation and benediction.

business transacted until this afternoon.

The Roosevelt announcement served this afternoon to start a series of new presidential slates. Delegations heretofore counted solidly for Taft or Roosevelt. This afternoon began discussing new candidates. Foremost in the gossip was a plan to offset the Roosevelt defection by naming Hadley, Roosevelt's floor leader. The old line politicians figured that Hadley would command the support of the more moderate progressives, who do not want to bolt and would welcome a chance to maintain their party regularly, while voting for a progressive candidate. That this plan might partially succeed, was indicated when several delegations caucused this afternoon and divided on Roosevelt vs. Hadley. Taft delegations, it was reported, were likewise affected.

BYERS IS CAPTAIN OF TRACK TEAM

At a meeting of the members of the Normal school track team yesterday Marcus Byers, 1548 Kane street, was elected captain of next year's track team. He was the unanimous choice of the men and one of the best all-round athletes of the normal school and will make a good leader for next year's aggregation.

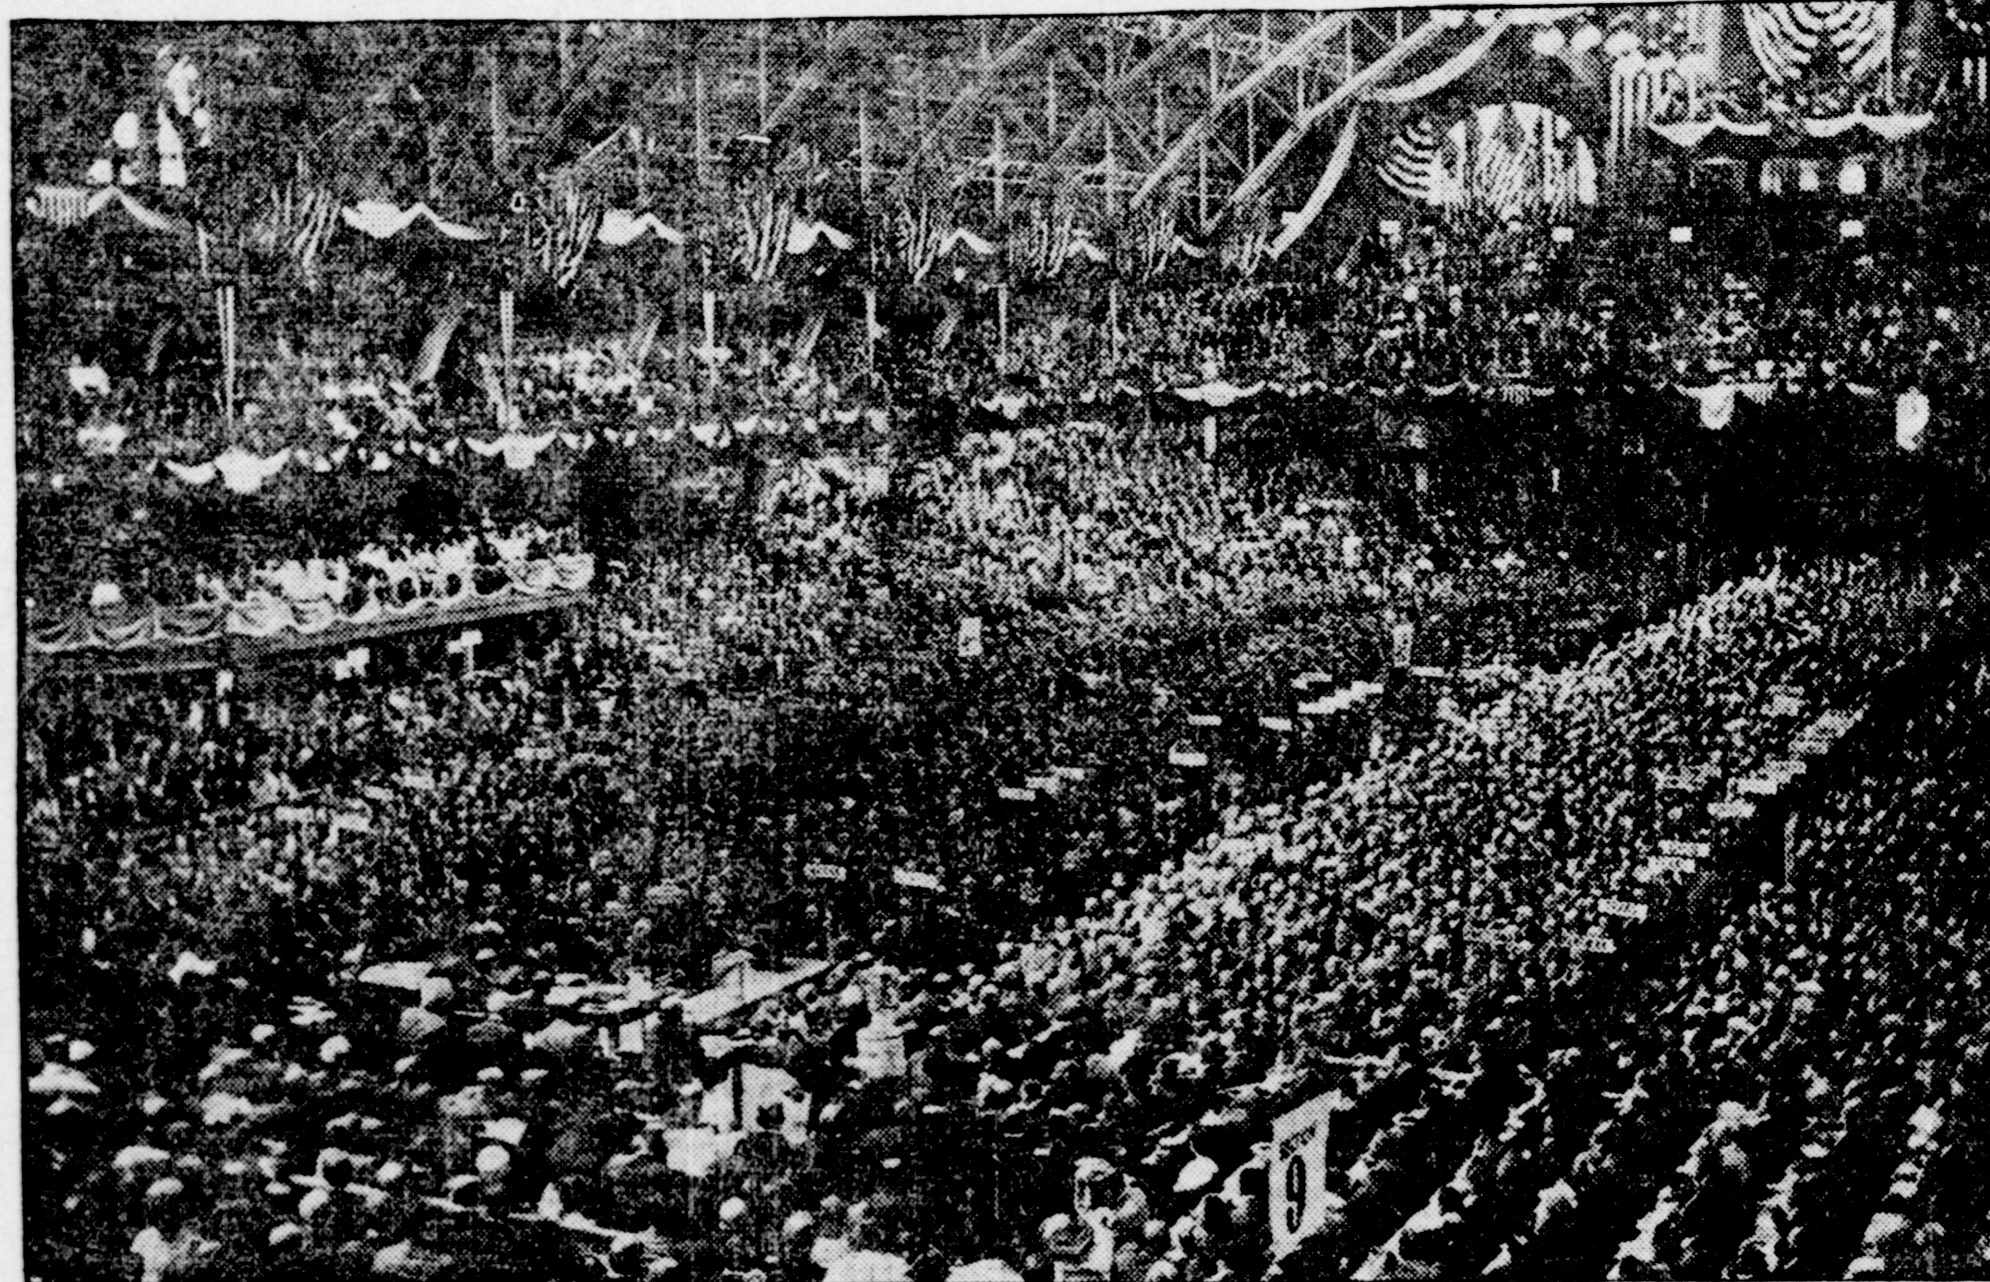

Floyd D. Bartels, of Richland Center, was chosen captain of the baseball team for next year. Bartels has been the normal's one best pitcher this year and will doubtless captain a championship team next season. President Cotton entertained the members of the baseball squad at a dinner at the Stoddard yesterday.

ROOSEVELT BOLT HALTS PLATFORM

Resolutions Committee Adjourns to Await Outcome of New Party

CHICAGO, June 20.—The launching of Colonel Roosevelt's bolt today halted the republican convention platform framers. The resolutions committee adjourned after two hours of unsatisfactory progress to meet again on call of Chairman Charles W. Fairbanks.

Of the nine members of the platform committee, only the six Taft representatives were present. The Rooseveltites refused to enter into the discussion, although Governor Hadley was present for a few minutes before adjournment.

It was conceded that the platform planned by the Taft supporters, will have to undergo radical changes if the new Roosevelt party is actually put through according to schedule. It was to wait on the day's developments that the committee decided to defer action.

Last night the committee heard Samuel Gompers, for the American Federation of Labor, Jane Addams, supporting a woman's suffrage plank, and other pleaders for platform declaration.

LA FOLLETTE MEN PUTTING IT UP TO TOM MORRIS

Governor McGovern arise and second the Deneen resolution.

Marshall of Indiana, for Taft, moved to lay the resolution on the table. The Wisconsin men discussed the situation, and at the outset the sentiment was that their vote must be so split if possible as to favor the seating of those delegates to seat whom Mr. Rodgers, Wisconsin national committeeman, voted in that body, and to reject those against seating whom he had voted. However, before Wisconsin was reached the ballot had so progressed that it was apparent that the Roosevelt forces had been defeated, and as a concession to harmony and solidarity the delegation voted as a unit in accord with the stand taken by McGovern in seconding the Deneen resolution.

Conference With Dixon

In addition to the Journal interview and the action of McGovern in relation to the Deneen resolution, La Follette leaders were further impressed with the probabilities of a fight by the fact that Governor McGovern was seen in conference with Dixon, the Roosevelt manager, during the session yesterday.

The claim of the McGovern people that their action Tuesday in relation to the chairmanship would not be regarded as an agreement between La Follette and "T. R." and that Roosevelt would not seek advantage because of that idea, and that McGovern's candidacy would help "Bob" rather than hurt him, has been answered adversely. Almost every newspaper supporting Roosevelt has put the damaging version upon the incident, and the Journal tonight frankly says:

"Bob's Future Jeopardized"

"Senator Robert M. La Follette's political future, in the opinion of many, was seriously jeopardized by the action of part of the Wisconsin delegation yesterday in supporting Governor McGovern against the expressed declaration of Walter L. Houser, La Follette's political manager, that Senator La Follette was not a party to a Roosevelt alliance. It was the first break in the La Follette line since the Wisconsin senator began his fight in the national field. The resignation of H. F. Cochems from the delegation last night heightened the acuteness of the situation."

"The glee with which the Roosevelt following greeted the break up of the Wisconsin delegation on the McGovern issue was ample evidence to the convention of the feud between the two progressive candidates. The defection of Henry F. Cochems of Milwaukee to Houser was cheered to the echo by the Roosevelt following."

Notwithstanding the gravity of the situation, some sober-minded leaders are still hoping that the chasm in the solid rock of Wisconsin republicanism may be closed or at least bridged.

TEDDY SAYS HE WILL FIGHT ON UNTIL FINISH

Last night with former Vice President Fairbanks and other Taft leaders. A messenger was sent to Governor Hadley who asked the governor whether he would accept a nomination at the hands of a convention which had not purged its roll. The governor declined to answer and the Roosevelt forces decided to take quick and radical action.

Gov. Hadley had later appeared at the colonel's rooms to join the conference and defend his position. He argued in favor of a delay until the convention should have the report from the credentials committee and a roll call be taken in the convention on this report.

Protest Against Delay.

Governor Johnson and Francis J. Heney, of California, protested against any delay. They held that the country understood perfectly the moral issue and insisted that it would be unparliamentary tactics. It was practically decided among Roosevelt's friends that they would not wait for the development of the Hadley program. The decision to bolt the convention was the result.

Gov. Hadley stated to a conference of Roosevelt leaders, called today in the colonel's rooms, that he had been misrepresented in the press reports. The Missouri executive was asked what would be his course of action if the convention refused to unseat the so-called fraudulent delegates. He replied: "I will rise in my place and announce to the convention that I will have no part in the convention which does business with a roll tainted with this kind of fraud."

"Will you leave the hall?" he was next asked.

"I will not say that," he answered.

Governor Hadley argued against holding the convention until the credentials committee had been reached and acted upon. He contended that the position of those who were fighting the "tainted roll" would be stronger if every opportunity was given the convention to remove the questioned delegates.

The colonel decided that there should be a meeting of two representatives from each state, and a Roosevelt delegation this afternoon to map out a plan of future action to be followed in the convention. As a delegate of the Kansas Roosevelt forces expressed it, this conference will likewise consider propositions from the Taft camp that "they return a part of the stolen goods."

Prepares Statement

Col. Roosevelt immediately began preparation of a long formal statement to be distributed in printed form to everyone of his delegates, outlining his reasons for the momentous step.

While this statement was in process of framing, Gov. Hadley quietly slipped out of the conference. He denied any row with T. R.

While the Roosevelt leaders gathered in cabinet session in the colonel's room, the wildest rumors swept the Congress hotel and the delegates just beginning to assemble at the convention. Ex-Governor Post was the first of the conferees to emerge and he hurried away, wriggling away from the newspaper men with the announcement that Col. Roosevelt had determined to "release his delegates from all pledges to vote for him."

The corridor was packed with an anxious crowd, clamoring to confirm Post's statement and the reasons leading up to the colonel's determination.

Then Oscar K. Davis, chief of the Roosevelt publicity bureau, came out flatly to deny Post's deduction on Roosevelt's position. He vouchsafed no explanation. Neither would William Flinn, when he came out a moment later. The Pennsylvania refused flatly to talk and chewed a

DAY NOT TO RUN FOR RE-ELECTION

President of Board of Public Works Says the Salary Is Too Small

James T. Day, president of the board of public works today declared that he will not be a candidate for re-election next spring. According to Mr. Day the salary of $1,000 per year is too small to again tempt him to enter the race.

Mr. Day said, "I am not complaining about the salary. When I became a candidate for the position I knew what the job paid but I do not feel that I can again hold the position at that amount and do myself justice. Members of the council declare they are unable to change the salary because it is stipulated in the city charter. Another provision in the city charter is that the members of the board of public works are required to work but one hour per day. It is probable that when the salary was placed at $1,000, the members of the board were expected to only put in the required time, but since then the conditions have altered to such an extent that it keeps the members of the board busy to conduct the business which falls to this department. Still the salary remains unchanged."

frayed cigar with evident nervousness.

More people gathered around the room. Two score newspapermen fought for front rank places, swayed and pushed back by a file of policemen.

Suddenly the door opened. Davis emerged smiling.

"Do any of you know Col. Roosevelt's signature?" he demanded of the newspapermen. When answered affirmatively, he held aloft a single sheet of paper.

New Party Born

"This is the colonel's signed statement"—and he read the brief announcement signifying the birth of a new party.

Newspapermen copied it word for word, holding their "copy paper" on each other's back. Then there was a wild rush to announce to the world the entry of the new infant into the family of politics.

PREPARE PROGRAM FOR LABOR DAY

In preparation for arrangements of the annual Labor day celebration, John Rae, local organizer of the Trades and Labor council, has called a meeting of the special arrangements committee for tomorrow night, when details will be discussed. The committee which was recently appointed is: John Rae, chairman; A. B. Chandler, George Naegle, H. Boldt, Charles Jaekel, A. G. Bachmann, William Mitchell, G. R. Freeman, J. J. Serres and Alex. Major. At the last meeting of the Trades and Labor council, Joseph Wagner was appointed as a delegate to the State Federation of Labor at Sheboygan July 17.

MERCHANTS POSTPONE OUTING

TAFT WILL NOT QUIT THE RACE

Definite Announcement Is Made by President that He Will Stick to End

WASHINGTON, June 20.—It was flatly denied at the White House today that President Taft had given any authority to withdraw his name as a candidate for renomination at any time when Roosevelt should be eliminated. At the same time the White House informed the United Press that the president has been assured that Senator Crane or anyone else has not made such a statement.

When a rumor that Crane had been authorized to withdraw Taft from the race came to the White House it was rushed to Taft's desk. The president instantly dropped all business to get Senator Crane on the long distance telephone. After the telephone conversation it was given out that Crane had personally assured Taft that he had made no such statement.

For the first time since the convention started, Taft today denied himself to newspaper reporters. It was learned that Taft would make no comment on Roosevelt's action in releasing his delegates.

CLASS EXERCISES AT THE NORMAL

The class day exercises given by the seniors of the normal school yesterday were well attended. The normal orchestra furnished splendid music for the occasion and the seniors then gave their class song, which was composed by Misses Marion Southworth and Agnes Schaller. Harry Bender made the presentation of the Lally, which was received by George Barrett on behalf of the juniors. Nels Erickson presented the school with a check for forty-five dollars from the senior class, which was followed by the reading of the class will by Jessie Dietrich. A playlet was then given by ten members of the class in an environment ten years from today. Master Charles Weis played two charming piano numbers, responding to hearty encores.

A FOLLETTE'S PLATFORM CONTAINS PROGRESSIVE PRINCIPLES IN PLANKS

TO BE PRESENTED BY SENATOR OWEN

Committee on Resolutions of National Convention May Adopt Wisconsin Ideas

QUESTIONS ARE DODGED

Banking, Currency, Trade Commission, Tariff and Trusts Are Dealt With

Senator La Follette's platform to be presented to the committee on resolutions by the Wisconsin member, Senator W. C. Owen, will contain the following planks:

Banking and Currency.

Under our present currency system the people's bank deposits are insured by the federal government. To insure the people's bank deposits, to help finance the trusts, to destroy independent producers, to promote speculative markets, and to foster inordinate securities on the public.

Banking which the money power has created are used to force government to come to its aid and competitors to give up their property. The vice of this system lies in the privilege of using the money and credit of the people for speculation and depriving legitimate business of support. This vice is now admitted by the money power itself, but the legislation proposed, under sound in certain prospects, carries in its "jokers" the intent to deceive the people. Pretending to offer support to commerce, it creates references for speculation that lead to inflation and rising prices instead of elasticity and stable prices. Realizing that the people's only means of effective control is to revoke the charter, they create a vested right for fifty years, by which the power of revision by congress once in ten years. In the pretext that this is merely a business question they strive to prevent the people from putting their candidates on record regarding it.

We are opposed to the so-called

Aldrich currency plan and we pledge our candidates that under no circumstances shall the federal government come to the aid of high finance, but shall support those banks that extend a genuine preference to strictly commercial loans and to the millions of real producers who depend on those banks. We favor a carefully worked out and scientific emergency circulation under control of government, backed by proper reserve, issued against commercial paper that represents actual transactions, and adopted only after the people have thoroughly discussed and intelligently approved it.

Federal Trade Commission

In the enforcement and administration of federal laws designed to curb and control the powerful special interests of the country, there is much that may be committed to a federal trade commission, thus placing in the hands of an administrative board responsible to congress many of the functions now exercised by the courts, promoting promptness in the administration of law and avoiding delays and technicalities incident to court procedure.

Among the matters which should be handled by such a board is the determination of the difference in the cost of production at home and abroad for the purpose of protecting tariff legislation; an investigation into the character of great combinations of capital and the trusts of the country; a determination of facts which may be declared by law to be a violation of the anti-trust laws; enforcing the laws which may be passed with reference to the reasonable use of patents; and to co-operate with the proposed department of labor in enforcing regulations for the health, safety and hours of labor of the employees of protected manufacturers; requiring a uniform system of accounting and costkeeping for monopolistic protected industries and combinations, and such other powers as may be conferred from time to time by the laws of congress. We believe that all of these functions, some of which are now performed ineffectively by separate agencies of government and by the courts, may be brought together in a single organization, able to cope with the combined power of special privilege. Such commission should be composed of men peculiarly qualified for the discharge of such duties, and should be drawn from the various walks of life and supplied with an adequate staff of experts, accountants and engineers, to enable it to properly discharge the duties conferred upon it. In subsequent planks of this platform, dealing with the subjects of tariff, trusts and patents, more specific suggestions are made of the duties which appropriately may be conferred upon such commission. We pledge the establishment of such commission, the members to be appointed by the president and subject to recall by concurrent resolution of congress.

The Tariff.

The tariff has been instrumental in building up American industry, but it has been seized upon by powerful interests to take unjust advantage of consumers and wage-earners. We favor a continuation of the protective policy for the benefit of the producing classes, but demand that the tariff schedules be reduced to the ascertained difference in the labor cost of production at home and abroad, and so adjusted as not to protect inefficient management nor place a premium on the further exhaustion of our limited natural resources. The investigation of these facts and the revision of schedules should be made by the federal trade commission, subject to the action of congress. But such schedules as are generally recognized to be excessive shall be immediately reduced.

Patents

Inventions should be fully developed and utilized for the public benefit under reasonable regulations by the proposed Federal Trade Commission. We pledge the enactment of a patent law which will protect the inventor as well as the public, and which cannot be used against the public welfare in the interest of injurious monopolies.

Trusts and Monopolies

We are opposed to the repeal of the anti-trust law and we pledge ourselves to make it effective. The trusts and railroads are planning to secure action by the government that will legalize their proceedings and sanction their fictitious capitalization. These plans were thwarted for the time being when congress refused to accept the administration bill for regulation of railways. The situation is critical. The attitude of the Supreme court, in recent cases, makes it plain that any act on the part of the executive or legislative branch of government giving countenance to trusts or combinations, will be construed as an approval of the thousands of millions of watered stocks and bonds issued, and will fasten them forever upon the people. We are opposed to any federal incorporation, federal license, federal registration, or any other law or executive action that lends the color of approval of this spurious capitalization. We demand a physical valuation of all monopolistic properties by the proposed Trade Commission, beginning with the basic combinations that control natural resources, and determining the true values entitled to reasonable profit.

We are opposed to the pretended

dissolution of trusts which under the guise of destroying them perpetuates their powers. Their power lies mainly in the unfair practice and privileges by which they throttle competition. The proposed Trade Commission should have power to condemn all contracts, agreements and practices found to be discriminatory and oppressive and to compel the substitution of such as are found to be reasonable. It should enforce prohibition of criminal practices which should be specifically defined by law. We denounce that interpretation of the anti-trust law which uses it to suppress the unions and co-operative efforts of wage-earners and farmers in protecting their labor against moneyed monopolies, and we pledge a revision of the law making such construction impossible.

Injunctions

We pledge the republican party to the enactment of a law to prohibit the issuance of injunctions in cases arising out of labor disputes, when such injunctions would not apply when no labor disputes existed, and providing that in no case shall an injunction be issued when there exists a remedy by the ordinary process of law, and which act shall provide that in the procedure for contempt of court, the party cited for contempt shall be entitled to a trial by jury, except when such contempt was committed in the actual presence of the court or so near thereto as to interfere with the proper administration of justice.

Health

We favor the strengthening of the various agencies of the government relating to pure foods, quarantine and health, and their union into a single United States health service not subordinated to any other interest, commercial or financial, but devoted to co-operation with the health activities of the various states and cities of the nation, and to such efforts as is consistent with reasonable personal liberty looking to the elimination of unnecessary disease and the lengthening of human life.

Department of Labor

We pledge the enactment of a law creating a separate department of labor with a secretary at its head having a seat in the president's cabinet. We pledge ourselves to employ all the powers of the federal government, including the power over interstate commerce, to secure equal revenue taxation, in order that the benefits intended for American labor from tariff protection shall actually reach the laborer. To this end we favor federal legislation providing for workmen's compensation for accident, protection of women and child labor, safety and sanitation in work places and reasonable hours of labor according to standards to be fixed and enforced by the department of labor.

Conservation.

We pledge the preservation of the mines and water powers in this country to the whole people and particularly the beneficial control by the government of our coal supply, whether in public or private possession. We pledge an appropriation for the further exploration for phosphate beds, to be taken over and operated by the government. We pledge the increase of the forest domain and the extension of scientific forest development. We pledge a thorough investigation into living conditions and especially into the conditions of rural life, and legislation to encourage rural co-operation and credit, land purchases by actual settlers, with the aid of long-term favorable government loans, the increase of rural education, and to prevent the growth of monopoly and monopoly values in land, all looking to the encouragement of the tiller of the soil and to the reduction of the cost of living.

Alaska and Panama

We pledge the use of the Panama canal free of tolls to American ships engaged in domestic commerce, and favor the government ownership and operation of Alaskan railroads and coal mines and of an Alaskan steamship line by way of Pacific ports through Panama to New York.

Interstate Commerce Commission

We pledge an immediate valuation of the physical properties of interstate railroad, telegraph, telephone and other public utility companies distinguishing actual from monopoly values, to be made by the interstate commerce commission, as the first requisite in determining the true value of their properties for rate making purposes. We pledge such extension of the powers of said commission as shall guarantee the most efficient and prompt control over both rates and service. We demand that appeals be confined to questions involving constitutional rights and that the present commerce court be abolished.

Parcels Post and Express

We pledge the extension of the postal service to include a parcels post, offering against the service of the private express a monopoly, a cheap and direct means of transportation between the producer and the consumer, upon a charge based upon distance and the actual cost of operation.

Ship Subsidy

We are opposed to ship subsidy.

War Expenditures

We pledge the discontinuance of useless navy yards and military stations and demand the creation of unprejudiced commission to investigate and report an intelligent and efficient plan of national defense.

Dollar Diplomacy

We condemn the "dollar diplomacy" which has reduced our state department from its high place as a kindly intermediary of defenseless nations into a trading out-post for Wall Street interests, aiming to exploit those who would be our friends.

Income Tax

We pledge support to the pending income tax amendment to the constitution and the enactment of a graduated income tax law.

Initiative, Referendum and Recall

We pledge support of the Initiative, Referendum and Recall in nation and state.

Amending the Constitution

The process of amending the constitution of the United States is absurdly difficult. It places the decisions of the courts beyond the reach of congress or the people and exalts the judges to a position of irresponsible power. It affords a safe refuge for special interests and obstructs progressive legislation for the public welfare.

We favor such amendment to the constitution as will permit a change to be made therein by a majority of

ROOSEVELT LOSES SECOND STRUGGLE

Hadley's Motion to Oust Taft Delegates in Favor of T. R. Men Loses 564 to 510

CHICAGO, June 20.—The Roosevelt forces met their second defeat in the republican convention on Wednesday in a session which had for its outstanding feature a remarkable demonstration of nearly an hour's duration in honor of Governor Herbert S. Hadley of Missouri. All of the Roosevelt delegates joined in this demonstration, while some of the Taft states lent a voice.

Governor Hadley led the fight on the convention floor to oust ninety-two contested Taft delegates and to seat ninety-two Roosevelt men in their places. The convention finally refused to entertain the motion by a vote of 564 to 510.

This transferred the fight to the committee on credentials appointed just before the convention adjourned until Thursday noon.

The fact that the Taft forces strengthened their hold on the convention in the test vote yesterday getting 564 as against 558 the day before threw the opposition forces into something of a panic. The Roosevelt vote in the convention yesterday was 510 but it was realized that 26 votes from Wisconsin, 10 from Iowa and 10 from North Dakota must be deducted from that on a presidential ballot while but a few of the Taft votes could be gained.

More than 800 Graduated at University of Wisconsin During the Year

LOCAL GIRL WINS HONORS

Harriette Josten Awarded Special Honor for Historical Study; Galesville Girl Gets Scholarship

MADISON, Wis., June 20.—In the presence of a vast throng of alumni, university students and friends and relatives of the members of the graduating class, President Van Hise this morning presented 729 first and higher degrees to candidates who had successfully completed their college work at the fifty-ninth annual commencement. Of this number 461 degrees were presented to men and 268 to women. Together with the 96 first and higher degrees that have been presented since commencement last year a grand total of 825 degrees have been awarded during the year.

Special Honors

Special honors for excellent work in certain subjects were awarded to Amy G. Hoyt, Augusta, English and German; Affa Hubbell, Madison, English and Romance languages, and Merle Pierson, Milwaukee, English and history.

For presenting theses that exhibited unusual excellence, special honors were awarded to the following: Charles J. Anderson, Madison, in education; Marie A. Anthony, Milwaukee, in German; Elisha B. Beldeman, South Milwaukee, in history; William G. Crawford, Mineral Point, in chemistry; Robert H. Dunn, in history; Harriette M. Josten, La Crosse, in history; Joseph B. Hubbard, Madison, in history; Lynn E. Knorr, Granton, in political economy; Henry S. Leister.

Scholarships

Seven undergraduate scholarships amounting in all to $1,100 were awarded for next year to young women students of the University of Wisconsin by the regents of the institution at their June meeting. The Fannie P. Lewis scholarships were granted to Lella H. Seward, Bangor, N. Y.; and to Veda B. Larson, Deerfield. The Amelia H. Doyon scholarships were granted to Wylda J. Lucke, Madison, and to Neena R. Myhre, Fairchild. The Mortar Board scholarship was awarded to Huldah Johnson, Virginia, Minn.; the Gamma Phi Beta scholarship was granted to Ruth Alice Keith, Galesville, and the Christian R. Stein scholarship to Helen Kayser, Madison.

WHEN WALKING WITH LADIES

Nearly Every Country Has Its Own Ideas as to Place of Male Escort.

Almost every country has its own fashions for men who walk with ladies on the public streets. In America and in England we walk on the side of the lady that is nearer the street. Many years ago when the streets were not kept as clean as they are now, any person walking on the outer edge of the pavements was likely to get well splashed with mud and rainwater, and that is why the gentlemen took that side, so as to save the ladies' fine clothes.

In some countries it is considered better for the gentleman to keep nearer the middle of the pavement in order to preserve the lady from jostling of persons going in the opposite direction in a crowded street. When it is the rule for every one to keep to the right those who are on the left of the two passing streams are continually being bumped into. In Germany the gentleman always keeps on the same side of the lady, no matter which side of the street they may be on or which way they are going.

Money Value of Women.

If you are a married woman, and were asked to tell just what you were worth in hard cash to your husband, what figure would you name? The question is not a fanciful one by any means, but has been a subject of judicial consideration.

It was this way: The wife of an Iowa farmer bought a gallon of what purported to be kerosene, but which was afterward shown to be 21 per cent. gasoline. When the woman used some of it to start a fire with the stuff exploded, and she was burnt to death and her three children were seriously injured. The woman's husband sued the dealers for damages, and the jury awarded him $25 for the loss of his wife and $299.71 per child on account of injuries.

The defendants evidently thought that a woman was not worth $25, for they took an appeal from the verdict. The learned court, however, declined to look at it in that light, and the judgment was affirmed.—New York Mail.

In the Prohibition State.

"Got any gasoline, mister?" asked Dubbleigh, drawing up alongside of a Maine garage.

"Wal no, I hain't got no gasoline as gasoline," said the man in charge, "but as constable o' this here town I made a raid on St. Wiggins' grocery last night, and I got some bottled stuff as I'll carry ye just as far as ye've a mind to give it a trial. Fur as the smell goes, it's about the same thing, I reckon."—Harper's Weekly.

WHO WILL GET THE BALDWIN DELEGATES

Simeon E. Baldwin.

Gov. Simeon E. Baldwin, of Connecticut, is one of Democracy's "favorite sons" candidates for the presidential nomination. Connecticut's votes at Baltimore are pledged to him, but nobody seriously thinks that he has any chance of being the party's standard bearer. His delegates might come in handy to some candidate, however, and there has been some speculation as to who they will go to when Governor Baldwin is satisfied that he can't be nominated. The delegates are said to be of a conservative stamp, and in view of this fact are being counted upon by both Harmon and Underwood.

CURIOS FOR THE CHILDREN

One Room in Smithsonian Institution Filled With Objects of Interest to Young Folk.

Among the dim old rooms of the Smithsonian Institution, in Washington, is one very bright and cheery apartment, over the archway of which are the words "Children's Room." Here there are arranged all sorts of natural objects in which boys and girls are interested; such curious things as mineral wool, flexible sandstone, landscape marbles, a model of the Great Mogul, the largest diamond ever cut, and another of the largest lump of gold ever found.

In another case are the strange glove and finger sponges and the Venus flower basket, and over a case of beautiful shells is one of iridescent and brightly hued butterflies.

How creatures hide is illustrated by "walking leaves," the night hawk, crown creepers, "walking stick" and other queer creatures that are scarce to be detected because of their clever adherence to leaves, twigs and other objects of similar coloring.

Canny Grocer.

The canny grocer sized up his customer:

She had ordered six strictly fresh eggs.

He took down the paper bag and, going to the basket, picked them out.

Twisting the top of the bag together he handed it to the woman, who paid him and went away.

The canny grocer smiled. He had given the woman seven eggs when she ordered but six.

He knew that when she reached home and found that she had seven instead of six eggs she would be so delighted with the supposition that she had overreached him that she would entirely disregard the fact that six of the eggs were storage and one was dubious!

For the grocer understood human nature. And he was canny.—Plain Dealer.

ROOSEVELT TELLS HIS SUPPORTERS TO BOLT MEETING

Following Walk-out from Credentials Committee Last Night Scrap Is in Earnest

TAFT MEN KNUCKLE UNDER

Unable to Stand Strain Majority of the Committee Weakens and T. R. Forces Return

IS ONLY AN ARMED TRUCE

If Ex-President's Men Do Not Force Desires They Are Prepared for New Convention

CHICAGO, June 20.—Kaleidoscopic changes and shifts of tactics by the Roosevelt managers yesterday and last night resulted in discussions among the rank and file of the delegates today and in consequence there was a wide difference of opinion regarding what would be the outcome of the maneuvering. The militant element was admittedly restless under the delay. Gov. Johnson of California, who has been insisting from the start that he saw no use of "fighting with feathers," emphatically declared that so far as the California forces are concerned he intended now to "take a club."

Expect New Convention

Many of the Roosevelt followers expected last night that a new convention was to be organized in Orchestra hall today. They had been told that the colonel's managers had engaged the structure and that all arrangements had been completed for a mass meeting there, after which the Coliseum was to be stormed and Roosevelt nominated. But after Francis J. Heney of California; Maurice L. Galvin, Kansas; Lex N. Mitchell, Pennsylvania; Jesse M. Libby, Maine; Edward C. Carrigan, Jr., Maryland; H. T. Halbert, Minnesota; H. E. Sackett, Nebraska; C. H. Cowles, North Carolina; John J. Sullivan, Ohio; A. D. Swift, Oregon; Daniel Norton, Oklahoma, and S. X. Ray, South Dakota, had withdrawn from the committee on credentials because they declared that an attempt had been made to gag them, they were directed to return today by Col. Roosevelt. The rules at first suggested would have limited the presentation of each contest to five minutes a side, would have prevented discussion, and would have compelled a vote immediately after a contest was ordered closed.

There was, of course, the possibility that the Roosevelt forces would walk out again when the decision in the ninth Alabama case was reached. This was one in which the cry of fraud had been freely raised by the Roosevelt men, but it was absolutely certain when the committee went into session today that the Taft men were in complete control and that their votes would be cast to retain on the roll the men placed there by the national committee.

Those who held to this belief based their opinion on the following fiery statement made by Col. Roosevelt to his followers early today, in ordering them back to the convention hall.

Roosevelt Through
"As far as I am concerned, I am through. I hope that when you go back to the convention hall, you will at once introduce a resolution to the effect that not one of these fraudulently seated delegates shall vote on any question in the credentials committee if they are on that committee, or in the house, on any question whatever. I hope that you will take the position that you decline longer to submit to having delegates fraudulently seated in the convention allowed to sit as judges upon their own cases and to vote upon the report of the committee on credentials either as a whole or in detail. I hope that if you are voted down, you, the real and lawful majority of the convention, will organize as such. And you will do it. You have the courage and you must so act if you are loyal to your own convictions. My advice is not to place any further confidence and do not permit yourselves to be committed in any way, shape or fashion by any other association with these men as long as they keep control only by a majority committee composed in essential part of fraudulently seated delegates who have not the slightest title to represent the rank and file of the republicans. I hope you will make this issue the first thing."

Another Walk Out
If the Roosevelt men should accept this advice as meaning that the issue would be joined with the vote of the member of the credentials committee from Arizona on the Alabama cases, he being one of the members seated by the national committee then the fireworks would have to start. Heney was expected to demand that none of the members of the committee whose right to sit is questioned, be permitted to vote in the committee. That was the way that he interpreted his instructions, and if his view was accepted by the majority of the members of the committee who are simon pure Roosevelt men there would be no recourse left but to walk out a second time.

If this occurs nothing can prevent a fight on the floor of the convention this afternoon. If they decide to sit throughout and present a minority report, the real fight will go over until the credentials committee reports. In either instance the planned procedure is the same. They will elect Gov. Johnson chairman and will try to run a convention within a convention, moving to the side of the hall if necessary, as it is admitted they cannot hope to rush the big police guard and get possession of the platform. Johnson has been selected because he has admitted the strongest voice of any man in the convention on the Roosevelt side and can be depended on to make himself heard above the din of Temporary Chairman Root's gavel.

The conservatives in control openly asserted today prior to the convening of the convention that no such procedure would be permitted. Senator Root is understood to have instructed Sergeant-at-Arms Stone that if any attempt is made to organize a second convention on the floor of the Coliseum the men who participate are to be asked to leave the hall. If they refuse Root will possibly order them to observe the proprieties or get out. They will undoubtedly refuse to do this, and then Root will call on the sergeant-at-arms of the convention and the Chicago police to clear the convention hall. Whether the Roosevelt men will pass out orderly and proceed to Orchestra hall which is held for their use if necessary, or will insist on being ejected by force, cannot be learned in advance. That is one thing which the men in charge are keeping as quiet as possible.

Who Will Bolt?
Just what states will follow a bolt is uncertain. It was generally conceded today that all of the states whose representatives walked out of the committee on credentials last night will participate. The representatives of Idaho, Illinois, North Dakota and Tennessee, voted against the so-called gag rules but remained inside the convention. New Jersey's representatives did not walk out but George L. Record, leader of the Roosevelt forces in that state, says they will be with Roosevelt in any thing. Illinois and Missouri are not expected to bolt as a body, although the individual members are expected to go out. It seemed certain, however, that Roosevelt would not have the united support of all the delegates in the direct primary states in spite of claims that they would act as a body on the question of his candidacy.

Pedigree of the Horse.
Geologists have finally completed a distinguished genealogy for the horse. Here is the list, with the geological eras in which each lived, as arranged by Prof. W. N. Rice:

The line of descent begins with Hyracotherium and Eohippus of the lower Eocene age. Then follow Prototrochus and Orohippus of the middle Eocene, Eohippus of the upper Eocene, Mesotrochus of the Oligocene, Anchitherium of the lower Miocene, Parahippus, Prototrochus and Pliotrochus of the middle and upper Miocene, and finally Equus of the Pliocene and the Quaternary, from which the modern horse directly descends. Hippotrochus and Hippotrochus represented ancient side branches that died without descendants.

TODAY ONLY

After the Roosevelt men had walked out, however, the majority members of the committee backed down. They modified their rules to provide that the representatives of the press associations who were admitted by the national committee while it was hearing contests should be present at the committee sessions. Then they provided that 30 minutes would be given to each side in presenting a state contest and twenty minutes in each district contest. It was also agreed that increases where this would not give time enough for the proper presentation of the points at issue, the time limit would not be enforced.

When Col. Roosevelt learned of this modification, he ordered his men in the committee to get back into the meeting and continue their fight. This decision caused jubilation among the Taft forces. They accepted it as an indication that the opposition was weakening and jubilantly declared that when the Roosevelt forces try to organize their own little convention on the floor, they will be unable to hold more than half of their membership.

Routine Today

Today's session of the convention was expected to be routine only, unless the Roosevelt forces should decide to force the issue. The very fact that the committee on credentials had thrown open the gates to the presentation of complete contests indicated that the body could hardly expect to finish its labors before tomorrow at the earliest. Meanwhile the convention must remain at a standstill.

There was, of course, the possibility that the Roosevelt forces would walk out again when the decision in the ninth Alabama case was reached. This was one in which the cry of fraud had been freely raised by the Roosevelt men, but it was absolutely certain when the committee went into session today that the Taft men were in complete control and that their votes would be cast to retain on the roll the men placed there by the national committee.

Those who held to this belief based their opinion on the following fiery statement made by Col. Roosevelt to his followers early today, in ordering them back to the convention hall.

Roosevelt Through
"As far as I am concerned, I am through. I hope that when you go back to the convention hall, you will at once introduce a resolution to the effect that not one of these fraudulently seated delegates shall vote on any question in the credentials committee if they are on that committee, or in the house, on any question whatever. I hope that you will take the position that you decline longer to submit to having delegates fraudulently seated in the convention allowed to sit as judges upon their own cases and to vote upon the report of the committee on credentials either as a whole or in detail. I hope that if you are voted down, you, the real and lawful majority of the convention, will organize as such. And you will do it. You have the courage and you must so act if you are loyal to your own convictions. My advice is not to place any further confidence and do not permit yourselves to be committed in any way, shape or fashion by any other association with these men as long as they keep control only by a majority committee composed in essential part of fraudulently seated delegates who have not the slightest title to represent the rank and file of the republicans. I hope you will make this issue the first thing."

Another Walk Out
If the Roosevelt men should accept this advice as meaning that the issue would be joined with the vote of the member of the credentials committee from Arizona on the Alabama cases, he being one of the members seated by the national committee then the fireworks would have to start. Heney was expected to demand that none of the members of the committee whose right to sit is questioned, be permitted to vote in the committee. That was the way that he interpreted his instructions, and if his view was accepted by the majority of the members of the committee who are simon pure Roosevelt men there would be no recourse left but to walk out a second time.

HOW TRUE HOME IS CREATED

It Never Can Be Made Deliberately, But Must Just Grow Through the Years.

Probably only when a man comes to get married does he realize how full the world is of people ready and anxious to give advice. This is an age of advice giving; and particularly it is an age of advice giving to those about to wed. I have a fairly large circle of young married acquaintances, and I am bound to say that every now and then I seem to come across the trail of the Advice Giver in the shape of some examples of the result of Advice Taken.

Far too much advice, there is no doubt, is uttered by "artistic" people on this really absolutely simple matter of house-interior decoration. The true home interior is never created deliberately. It happens. Throughout the years it accumulates, it develops, it grows and blossoms forth into its final beauty—or ugliness, as the case may be. The lovely old cottage and farm interiors so much imitated nowadays were not the result of conscious decoration or design; they were instinctive. They "grewed." No "decorator expert," was called in to devise their harmonies, to think out pretended "accidental" groupings of furniture, window-seat, oak beams, and the rest. Beauty was evolved, just because there was no forethought, no conscious decoration.—Exchange.

In the Natural Course.

Life is ever unfolding from within, and revealing itself to the light, and thoughts engendered in the heart at last reveal themselves in words, actions and things accomplished.—James Allen.

WALTON ON BIRDS' SONGS

Famous Author of "The Compleat Angler" Appreciated Music of His Feathered Friends.

At first the lark, when she means to rejoice, to cheer herself, and those that hear her, she then quits the earth and sings as she ascends higher into the air; and having ended her heavenly employment, grows then mute and sad, to think she must descend to the dull earth, which she would not touch but for necessity. Now do the blackbird and the thrush, with their melodious voices, bid welcome to the cheerful spring, and in their fixed mouths warble forth such ditties as no art or instrument can reach to. Nay, the smaller birds do the like in their particular seasons; as, namely, the laverock, the titlark, the little linnet, and the honest robin, that loves mankind, both alive and dead. But the nightingale, another of my airy creatures, breathes such sweet, loud music out of her little instrumental throat that it might make mankind think miracles are not ceased. He that at midnight, when the very laborer sleeps securely, should hear—as I have very often—the clear air, the sweet descants, the natural rising and falling, the doubling and redoubling of her voice, might well be lifted above earth and say:

"Lord, what music hast thou provided for the saints in heaven, when thou afforest to bad men such music upon earth!"—Isaak Walton's "The Compleat Angler."

A Famous General Who Dressed in Velvet

Custer, the Master Leader, and His Picturesqueness In Costume Show by Civil War Photographs Newly Discovered.

What American boy has not thrilled over the deeds of that master leader of men, George A. Custer? Never was a career more tragic. He faced death, nay, galloped into its very jaws, a hundred times in the Civil War, the fiercest of modern days—only to fall in an Indian massacre!

It is surprising to find, through the newly discovered Civil War photographs, that this born leader of men, trusted bearer of responsibilities involving the lives of thousands, was picturesque in costume to a degree.

A vivid recollection of Custer just before the battle of Gettysburg is furnished by the wartime Colonel of the Sixth Michigan Cavalry, J. H. Kidd. It was at Hanover, Pa., in June, 1863, that his brigade first saw the dashing cavalryman.

"As the men of the 'sixty armed with their Spencer rifles, were deploying forward across the railroad into a wheatfield beyond, I heard a voice new to me, directly in rear of the portion of the line where I was, giving directions for the movement, in clear, resonant tones, and in a calm, confident manner, at once resolute and reassuring. Looking back to see whence it came, my eyes were instantly riveted upon a figure only a few feet distant, whose appearance amazed, if it did not for the moment amuse me. It was he who was giving the orders. At first, I thought he might be a staff-officer, conveying the commands of his chief. But it was at once apparent that he was giving orders, not transmitting them, and that he was in command of the line.

"Looking at him closely, this is what I saw: An officer, superbly mounted, who sat his charger as if to the manner born. Tall, lithe, active, muscular, straight as an Indian and as quick in his movements, he had the fair complexion of a school-girl. He was clad in a suit of black velvet, elaborately

Silhouettes of Custer And His Chief, Pleasanton.

As they sat their horses before the battle of Gettysburg. Drawn from Civil War Time photographs. Even in the silhouette Custer's upright bearing and dashing, easy seat can be noted. He was a magnificent horseman.

trimmed with gold lace, which ran down the outer seam of his trousers, and almost covered the sleeves of his cavalry jacket. The wide collar of a navy-blue shirt was turned down over the collar of his velvet jacket, and a necktie of brilliant crimson was tied in a graceful knot at the throat, the long ends falling carelessly in front. The double rows of buttons on his breast were arranged in groups of twos, indicating the rank of brigadier-general. A soft black hat with wide brim adorned with a gilt cord, and rosette encircling a silver star, was worn turned down on one side, giving him a rakish air. His golden hair fell in graceful luxuriance nearly or quite to his shoulders, and his upper lip was garnished with a blonde mustache. A sword and belt, gilt spurs and topboots completed his unique outfit.

Notwithstanding his picturesqueness and dashing temperament Custer was a man of cultivated nature and possessed the military abilities in a marked degree. He had been graduated from West Point in 1861 and appointed Second Lieutenant in the Fifth United States cavalry. General McClellan noted a spirited reconnaissance made by him on the Chickahominy, and took him as an aide-de-camp with the rank of captain. His promotion to brigadier-general of volunteers was made in June, 1863.

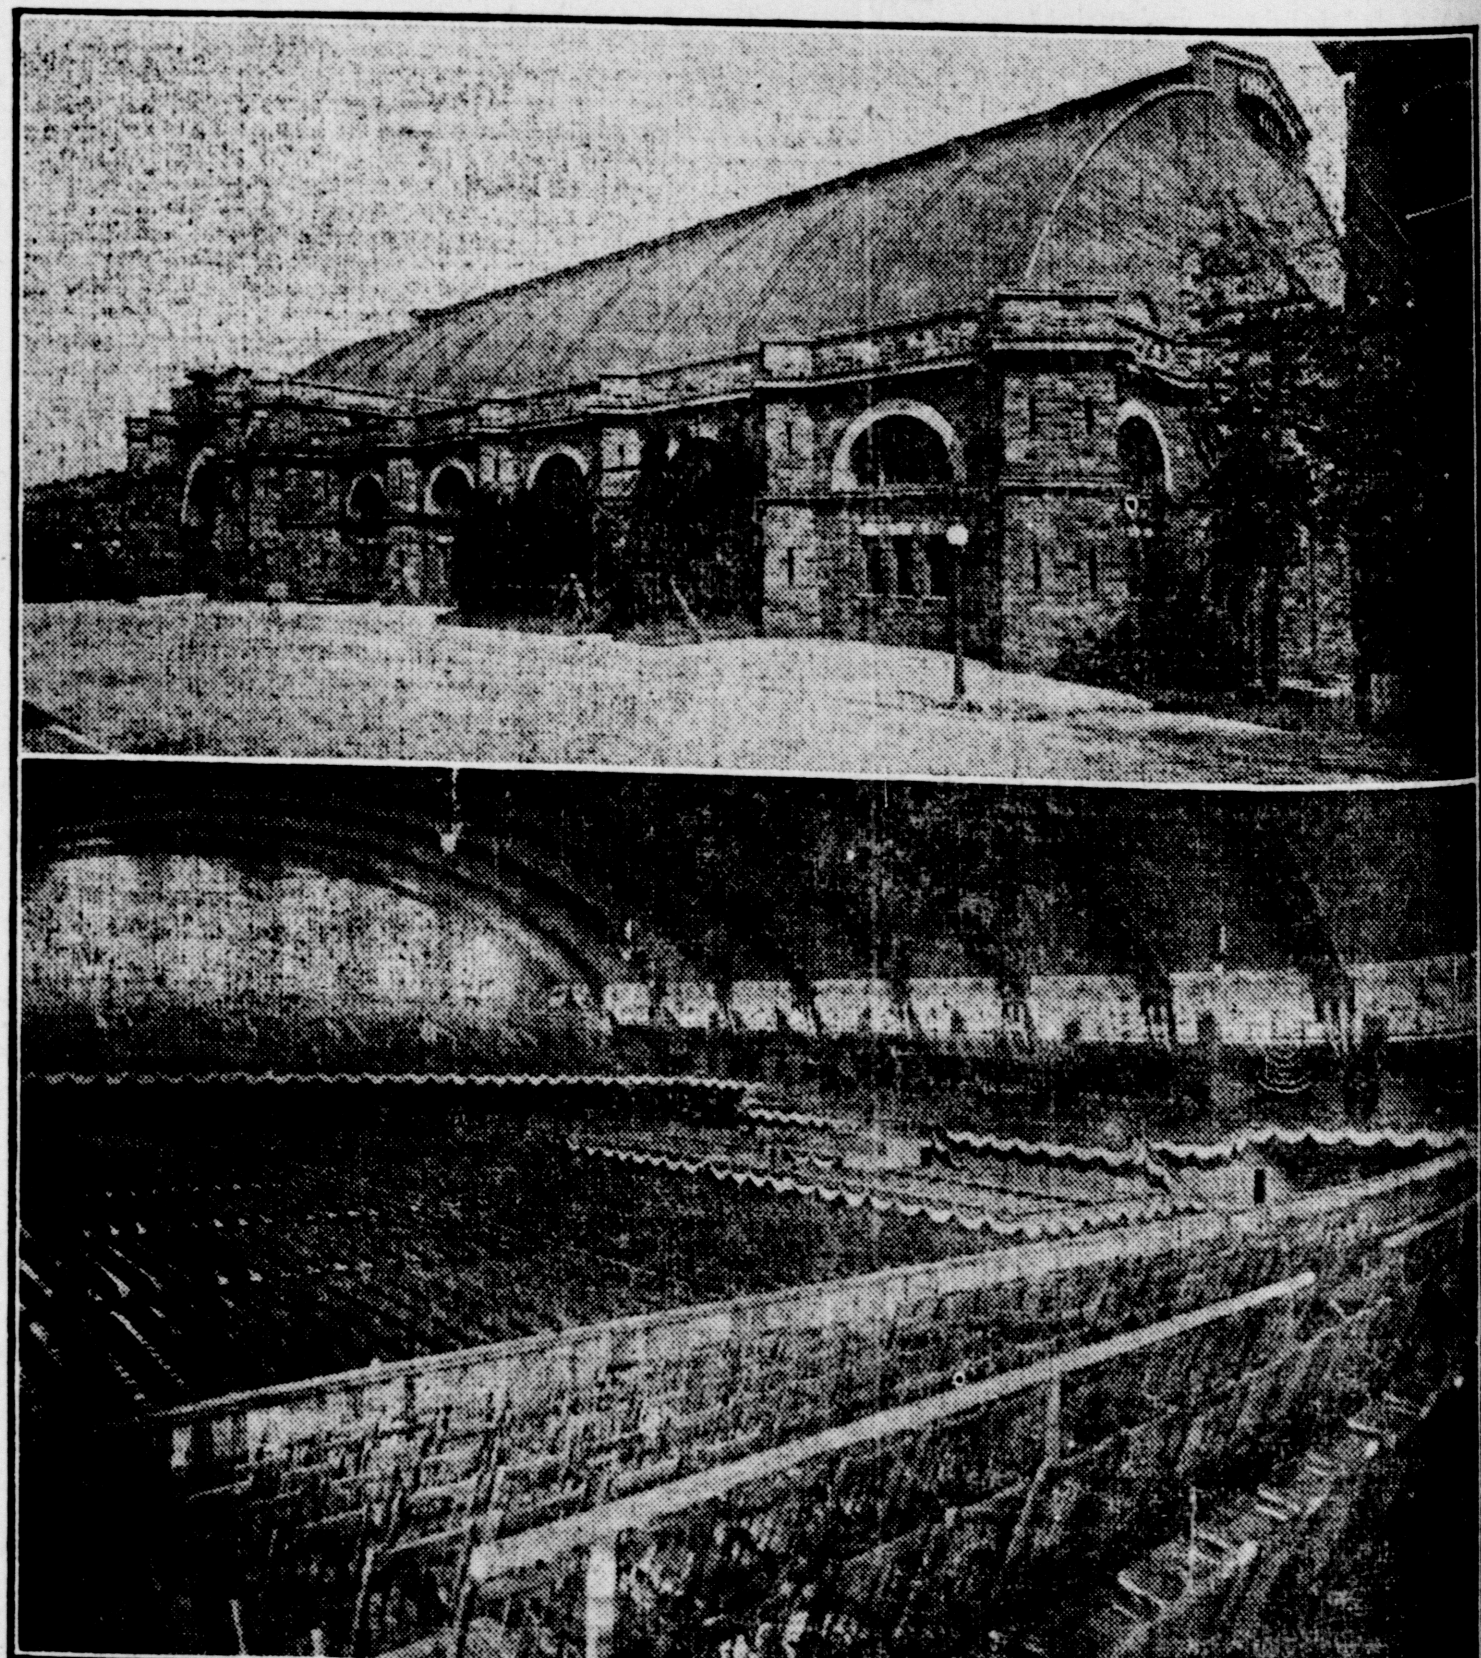

Custer was a splendid organizer, and his brigade became one of the best trained and most efficient bodies of cavalry in the Federal armies. Its career at Gettysburg, Woodstock, Cedar Creek and elsewhere furnishes one of the most remarkable records of the war. After the finish of the struggle Custer was made brevet major general in the regular army.

Brave, impetuous to the last, Custer died fighting the Sioux Indians in the "Big Horn" massacre of June 25, 1876.

No one who has seen the actual photographs of Custer in Civil War Time can fail to be struck by the contrast between his picturesque suit of velvet and his firm-set soldierly face.
